Navy Lt. Commander Richard Stratton was flying his A-4 Skyhawk attached to the USS Ticonderoga on a mission over North Vietnam on Jan. 5, 1967 when a missile aboard misfired and debris choked the engine, forcing him to eject. He was immediately captured by the North Vietnamese and held captive for more than six years - 2,251 days. On March 4, 1973, he was

Parade, Ceremony To Mark Veterans Day Nov. 11

Lt. Comm. Ryan Seggerty, Naval Operational Support Center, Speaker

By SCOTT JACKSON
Quincy will hold a parade and wreath-laying ceremony on Monday, Nov. 11, to commemorate Veterans Day.
Lt. Comm. Ryan Seggerty, the commanding officer of Naval Operational Support Center Quincy, will be the keynote speaker for the ceremony.
The parade will step off from the Quincy High School parking lot on Russell Park at 10:30 a.m. on Nov. 11. The procession will make its way up Russell Park to Hancock Street, then follow Hancock Street to the World War II memorial inside Merrymount Park, where the ceremony will take place.

The parade will pause briefly at the corner of Hancock Street and Furnace Brook Parkway, for a wreath-laying ceremony at the Doughboy Statue, which honors the men and women of Quincy who served during World War I.
Peter Walsh, the commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, will serve as parade marshal. Vice commanders Robert LaFleur and Charles Hurd will act as aides to the commander. George Nicholson, director of the city's Veterans Services Department, is parade chairman and George Bouchard, the graves registration officer, is co-chairman. Leo Reardon and Marc Connolly, both past QVC commanders, are officer of the day and sergeant at arms, respectively.

Also participating in the parade will be the Quincy Police Honor Guard, Quincy Fire Honor Guard, Boston Windjammers, William R. Caddy Detachment MCL, the Second Marine Division Association, Nickerson Post 382 AL, the Worcester Brass Band, Vietnam Veterans Combined Armed Forces Quincy Chapter, Cyril P. Student Enrollment Up, Class Sizes Still Acceptable

By TOM GORMAN

Despite an increase of roughly 200 students in the Quincy Public Schools over the past year, class sizes remain at acceptable levels throughout the district.

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro reviewed the latest enrollment numbers for the school committee recently. The review included a 10-year enrollment history as well as trends.

As of Oct. 1, there were a total of 9,825 students in the school system, a gain of 202 from a year ago. The total includes prekindergar-

Bellotti Leaving Quincy College

By SCOTT JACKSON

Michael Bellotti will leave his post as the interim president of Quincy College by the end of the current semester and the former president of Wachusett Community College will become the school's new acting leader.

Bellotti, the former Norfolk County sheriff, was named Quincy College's interim president in November 2018. The college's Board of Governors announced Oct. 24 that Bellotti would be leaving his position with the school to become the president of ARK Behavioral Health Centers, which operates the Northeast Treatment Center in Quincy, by the end of the current semester.

Daniel Asquino, who served as the president of Wachusett Community College in Gardner from 1987 to 2017, will take over as Quincy College's interim president once Bellotti departs.

Bellotti thanked the Board of Governors of Quincy College, as well as faculty, staff and the students, for their support and for their commitment to Quincy College.

"We have made progress over the past year, but there is more work to be done and what Quincy College needs now is a professional educator who can take us to the next level," he said in a statement.

Bellotti was appointed the interim president at Quincy College during a tumultuous year for the city-owned school. Peter Tsafaras, the school's president since 2011, resigned in May, at which time the Board of Governors handed the reins of the college to Mayor Thomas Koch. The school also lost state approval for its nursing program in May 2018; the college relaunched the program this fall after receiving state approval to do so.

Paul Barbadoro, the chairman of the Board of Governors, expressed the gratitude of the board and college to Bellotti for taking on the interim assignment last year even as the college struggled with the loss of its accreditation for its nursing school.

"Mr. Bellotti's willingness to take on the interim position was a big boost to our college community," Barbadoro said in a statement. "With the appointment of Dr. Asquino as interim president, we now have an established educator and administrator who has spent most of his career working in the Massachusetts public college space."

During Bellotti's tenure, the college has implemented a number of critical programs including a joint admissions partnership with Curry College that allows Quincy College criminal justice graduates automatic admission to Curry for a four-year degree; dual enrollment for high school students who can earn credits while in high school that will be applied to their academic requirements at Quincy College; and a host of new offerings for students to major in cyber security, EMT/paramedic training, and training for post-graduate work in the tech center, Barbadoro said.

COURSE SPOTLIGHT

Literature of the Supernatural (ENG 238 01)

1:40PM - 2:55PM on Tuesdays & Thursdays from January 22 to May 18 at the Quincy Campus. Register Now.

This course examines the Literature of the Supernatural as a fundamental mode of literary understanding and as a spark for creative personal experience. Gothic tales, ghost stories, supernatural events, odd coincidences, and unexplainable phenomena are often the beginning of an imaginative approach to both life and literature. Students will encounter a wide range of literary examples, from stories and poetry drawn from the traditions of European and American Romanticism and gothic tales to more modern modes of literary expressionism, surrealism, paranormal romance and horror.

Governor Visits City To Promote Legislation

Baker Calls For More Housing Construction

By SCOTT JACKSON

Speaking at Quincy City Hall Monday morning, Gov. Charlie Baker said a lack of affordable housing is one of the biggest issues the Bay State faces and urged lawmakers to approve a bill that could help meet the goal of building 135,000 new residential units by 2025.

Baker, a Swampscott Republican, and members of his administration were in Quincy to promote a bill he filed earlier this year that would encourage new housing development. To do so, the bill would allow local boards to approve certain projects by a simple majority vote instead of the two-thirds vote currently required.

Mayor Thomas Koch, Sen. John Keenan and a pair of local business leaders — Jimmy Liang of the JP Fuji Group and Dolly Di Pesa of Di Pesa & Company — spoke in favor of the proposed legislation during the half-hour event.

Since the turn of the century, Massachusetts has seen its population grow by 600,000, Baker said, but the production of new housing has not kept up.

"We used to build about 30,000 new units of housing every year like clockwork for about 50 years, and then starting about 1990 that number fell to less than half of that number and it has stayed there for the last 30 years," the governor said.

"That drives up the price and forces people farther and farther away from where they would like to live to where they can afford to live."

When Boston was vying to become the home of Amazon's second headquarters, Baker said the greatest challenge to the bid was the cost of housing in the area. The company ended up choosing locations in the New York City borough of Queens and northern Virginia suburbs of Washington, D.C., over Boston. (Amazon has since pulled its plan to move to Queens based on local opposition.)

"When they were looking at Massachusetts for a location for their second headquarters, they made very clear to us the single biggest challenge we faced in competing for that headquarters was the cost of housing," Baker said of Amazon.

"They ended up choosing New York City and the greater Washington, D.C., area — not exactly inexpensive housing markets, but they were inexpensive relative to this one."

It costs more money to buy or rent a home in Massachusetts than it does in any of the 49 other states, the governor added.

"We have the highest median housing prices and the highest median rents in the U.S.," Baker said. "I like being number one in a whole bunch of categories — I don't like being number one in that one."

Baker's bill would encourage development in town and city centers and near public transit stations.

Veridical Garden Donated To QHS

Students at Quincy High School will be learning about hydroponic gardening with their new veridical garden, growing vegetables and herbs in their Life Science and Earth Science class. This hydroponic garden was donated by Quincy School Committee member Kathryn Hubley and her family.

"I'm looking forward to seeing their first harvest," said Hubley.

Hydroponic gardening is a method of growing plants without soil. Herbs, veggies, some fruits can be grown indoors year-round, an increasingly popular option for urban communities. In hydroponic gardens, nutrients are dissolved in the water that surrounds the roots, where plants absorbed the nutrition they need to grow.

"We appreciate the Hubley family's donation to our science department classroom," said Quincy High School Principal Lawrence Taglieri.

Should you go back to a 30-year mortgage?

People are thinking about mortgages differently. Right now we're seeing borrowers who went with shorter terms going back to a 30-year loan. Some are tapping their equity for home improvements, college tuition or to consolidate other debt at a locked-in guaranteed low rate. Others just want a more comfortable monthly payment, less stress and more cash flow. It works because mortgage rates are still so low. And if you want, you can always pay the new 30-year loan off more aggressively, but you don't have to. Would a new 30-year mortgage make sense for you? Come see us or call VP/Retail Lending Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750 or apply online at colonialfed.com. Colonial Federal, a bank with ideas.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On Nov. 15, 1867, the first stock ticker is unveiled in New York City. The ticker revolutionized the stock market by making up-to-the-minute prices available to investors. Previously, the information traveled by mail or messenger.
- On Nov. 11, 1942, Congress approves lowering the draft age to 18 and raising the upper limit to age 37. In 1940, Congress had imposed the first peacetime draft in U.S. history for men between the ages of 21 and 36. But with the United States fighting in World War II, the draft ages had to be expanded.
- On Nov. 12, 1954, Ellis Island, the gateway to America, shuts its doors after processing more than 12 million immigrants since opening in 1892. Following World War I, Congress passed quota laws, which sharply reduced the number of newcomers.
- On Nov. 17, 1968, the Oakland Raiders score two touchdowns in nine seconds to beat the New York Jets - and no one sees it. With just 65 seconds left to play, NBC had switched to its previously scheduled programming - the children's movie "Heidi."
- On Nov. 13, 1979, during a game at the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, Philadelphia 76ers center Darryl Dawkins slam-dunks the basketball, shattering the fiberglass backboard. After a second incident, the NBA commissioner told Dawkins he'd be fined $5,000 and suspended every time he broke a backboard.
- On Nov. 14, 1985, a volcano erupts in Colombia, killing over 20,000 people as nearby towns are buried in mud, ice and lava. Few people evacuated after radio reports instructed residents to stay in their homes.
- On Nov. 16, 1999, construction begins on the massive annual bonfire at Texas A&M University. Two days later, the 59-foot-high lumber structure snapped, with scores of students caught on the huge log pile. Twelve people were killed, and 27 were injured.

PRESIDENTS LANE, QUINCY, MASS.

THIS IS A 1915 postcard view of Presidents Lane from Adams Street near Quincy Center. Portions of the stone walls on the sides of the road remain today. The intersection of Glendale Road can be seen where the road rises up the hill in the distance. Beyond that point the road was called Goffe Street at the time of this picture. President John Adams had owned all the land on this hill where he had fruit orchards and he frequently walked up this lane across from his home to watch the sunrise. After Adams died his grandson, Charles Francis Adams, was the first to build a house on the hill in 1836. The land then remained pretty much undeveloped until the 1890s when the Adams family heirs decided to sell the hill and the land development company that bought it divided it into three subdivisions. Wealthy Quincy businessmen who built large homes that command high selling prices to this day purchased many of the large lots on this side of what became known as Presidents Hill.

New Candidates Urge Programs At Meeting

Although all the candidates for city offices were invited to attend last night's seventh annual Candidates Night held by the North Quincy Koch Club at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Bungalow, it turned out to be a night for new candidates as only one candidate seeking re-election attended. Those seeking re-election to the School Committee were among the missing. Due to the City Council meeting only Councillor James R. McIntyre attended.

Seeking the office of mayor former city councillor Lawrence J. Curtin took to task Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa for his "insincere bunk." Curtin referred to the letters sent out by Mayor Della Chiesa to citizens on the occasion of a birthday, a birth or a promotion (also known as "Womb to the Tomb" cards.) Curtin questioned the mayor's right to use the taxpayers' money in such a manner.

Councillor James R. McIntyre, getting out of a sick bed to attend the forum, spoke on his candidacy for a second term on the council.

CITY WINS IN DISPUTE OVER BALLOT

City Solicitor Douglas A. Randall said that Judge Reuben Lurie had handed down his decision on the city election ballot dispute case in favor of the city.

The court's finding that the petition of Joseph P. McDonough, candidate for city council, was without merit.

The judge ruled that City Clerk Donald R. Crane was correct in his intention to print the names of the candidates now in office at the top of the ballot with the words "Candidate for Re-Election" after them.

McDonough had contested that since the change in government was coming at the end of the year, the present councillors on the ballot were not "incumbents" for the reason that their duties under Plan A would be different than their duties under Plan E.

PRODUCTION UNDERWAY ON NUCLEAR CRUISER

Production on the United States' first nuclear powered surface vessel - a guided missile cruiser - is underway at Fore River Shipyard, several months in advance of the keel laying scheduled for sometime next spring.

Before production could get underway, the yard had to provide new facilities for the work and it also had to set up a training program for its personnel.

Chosen for two new positions were two Quincy men. They included John A. Wilkins, 35, of Squantum, service engineer in the nuclear power branch of the Central Technical Department and 38-year old William H. Collins, Jr., superintendent of sales of the Quincy Yard's special products division.

Compressor Issue, Democracy And Government Mistrust

Editor's Note: A copy of the following letter was submitted to The Quincy Sun for publication.

Representative Ronald Mariano, Majority Leader State House, Room 343 Boston, MA 02133

Dear Representative Mariano;

In a recent interview by Mr. Catalano on Quincy Access TV Oct. 19th, 2019, I was keen to learn about your stand on the Compressor Station for the Fore River Basin in North Weymouth, MA and particularly what further action you could perhaps take to stop this compressor to be built?

I was taken back to learn from your interview that permits have been issued, ignoring or in violation of Federal Government's own rules and regulations regarding air quality in the already heavily polluted ambient air of volatile gases, among them benzene and formaldehyde.

Although hundreds of residents, including myself, elected city, state and federal officials have gone on record and written letters, attended meetings with the city official, yet all of this has been ignored by the federal regulators, according to the recent interview.

This makes one question what has happened to our democracy: "government by the people - for the people." Have we relinquished and given up and let the government to permit projects even if they directly threaten our health and environment?

I understand your bill to monitor the air quality in the area after the facility is built, but monitors only after the compressor is built and, if the air quality is found to exceed the accepted level of volatile gases, can the facility be shut down. I find no comfort in that statement, in that some of the air quality measures taken by the state have been found to be inaccurate, according to the recent independent air quality monitors. This is another reason many of us have lost our trust in government; the concern remains, if the compressor is allowed to be built - it will never be shut down, regardless of the air quality. This compressor issue is another example of mistrust of Government agencies.

Massachusetts is a leading state in energy efficiency. Alternative renewable energy resources are being explored and installed. Among them are off shore wind, (in works) additional solar and trash to energy. Furthermore, if the National Grid is repairing its hundreds of underground gas leaks, the State would not need additional natural gas lines or a compressor.

Furthermore, the Fore River estuary has been declared as an Environmental Justice area in 1994 by an Executive order of President Bill Clinton, stating that "No group of people should bear a disproportionate share of the negative environmental consequences, resulting from industrial, governmental and commercial operations or policies."

Thank you for all your efforts helping your constituents in saving our clean air and water from the offensive compressor.

Broadway Concert Celebrates 'Fair Saturday Quincy'

Nov. 30th At United First Parish Church

The City of Quincy has been recognized as the first official U.S. City to partner and to participate in the international arts and cultural movement Fair Saturday, on Saturday Nov. 30. Originating in Bilbao, Spain in 2014, Fair Saturday aims to create a positive social impact each year on the last Saturday of November, the day following Black Friday.

Fair Saturday is an innovative cultural festival celebrating arts and culture in support of social issues that takes place in a growing number of cities across the world. In 2018 more than 600 events occurred in over 100 cities worldwide. Jordi Albareda, founder of Fair Saturday, stated "It is a day to change the world through arts and culture."

Cultural organizations across various disciplines participate by scheduling a time during the day/evening to express their art in support of their selected social cause. Fair Saturday will be celebrated by cities and towns around the world on Nov. 30. Cities across the globe include Bilbao, Bristol, Málaga, Milano, Lisbon, Portugal, Helsinki, Leuwarden, cities throughout Scotland, Germany, South Africa and more, forming an incredible tapestry of cities connected in the same positive celebration on the same day every year.

Quincy's partnership with this global arts and culture movement was launched on June 24, when Fair Saturday acknowledged international organizations that build bridges through culture and the arts at the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao, before an international audience from 12 countries, as well as a broad institutional, cultural and social presence from Bilbao and Biscay, Spain.

As the finale of "Fair Saturday Quincy" Broadway star and Tony award-winning actress Lillias White along with Emmy nominated and Sirius XM and Broadway star Seth Rudetsky will be joining high school and college students from our "Rising Stars" program for a very special concert in partnership with United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," in Quincy. The event is co-sponsored by The City of Quincy, The Marriott Hotel of Quincy and Liberty Bay Credit Union.

Lillias White is an American singer and actress of stage, television, and film who is particularly admired for her performances in Broadway musicals. In 1989 she won an Obie Award for her performance in the Off-Broadway musical Romance in Hard Times. In 1997 she won the Tony Award for Best Featured Actress in a Musical and Drama Desk Award for Outstanding Featured Actress in a Musical for portraying Sonja in Cy Coleman's The Life. She was nominated for a Tony Award again in 2010 for her work as Funmilayo in Fela Kuti's Fela!

White is also known for voicing Calliope on the Disney animated series Hercules, portraying Evette in the film Pieces of April, and for her work as Fat Annie (Caddillac's mother) in the Netflix series The Get Down. She has also starred as Bloody Mary in Rodgers and Hammerstein's South Pacific on PBS' Great Performances with Reba McEntire and in the PBS documentary In Performance at the White House. She is also an active cabaret singer and has appeared in concert with the Boston Pops Orchestra, the Brooklyn Philharmonic, and at Carnegie Hall.

Seth Rudetsky is an

LILLIAS WHITE

American musician, actor, writer, and radio host. He currently is the host of Seth's Big Fat Broadway and Seth Speaks on Sirius/XM Satellite Radio's on Broadway. The show focuses on Rudetsky's knowledge of Broadway theatre history and trivia. Rudetsky was nominated for the Emmy Award three times for his work as a comedy writer for The Rosie O'Donnell Show. He was a writer for the Grammy Award shows of 1999 and 2000. Rudetsky created the opening numbers for the 1998 and 2000 Tony Awards. Rudetsky also wrote the opening number for the last seven Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS Easter Bonnet Competitions and has been responsible for many of their Gypsy of The Year shows. He wrote and performed a one-man show called "Rhapsody in Seth". He often tours with variations on his one-man show. He appeared in the Series Finale of Kathy Griffin: My Life on the D-List.

Seth just revealed he filmed an episode of Will & Grace (for Season 3 of the reboot). The storyline includes Jack and Grace attending "AnnieCon"...a convention for anyone who ever played Annie. In the show, Seth plays Jerry Sussman, a music director who is now super successful and is also enemies with Jack.

The charity selected to honor at the concert is Y2Y, a homeless shelter in Harvard Square for young people ages 18 - 24. Y2Y provides a safe and affirming environment for young adults of all backgrounds, gender identities, and sexual orientations who are experiencing homelessness. This intentionally inclusive environment is especially important for LGBTQ young people, who experience homelessness at a much higher rate than their peers. Y2Y guests from the greater Boston area have opportunities to collaborate with service providers, other youth experiencing homelessness, and student volunteers to create sustainable pathways out of homelessness and develop skills for long-term success. Y2Y provides opportunities for both guests and volunteers to become the next generation's leading advocates for youth-driven solutions to homelessness.

'Cradle To Grave' Abigail Adams Historic Sites Visit, Program Sunday

The Abigail Adams Birthplace, Adams National Historical Park and United First Parish Church, the Church of the Presidents announce a new tour experience to be offered on Sunday, Nov. 3rd: "Cradle to Grave- Abigail Smith Adams: Extraordinary Woman, Extraordinary Life."

This half-day, three-site, guided historic program will be offered twice on Sunday, Nov. 3rd only. Morning tour time is 9 a.m. to noon. Afternoon tour time is noon to 3 p.m.

Ticket price is $10 per person.

The tour begins at the Visitors Center at Adams National Historical Park, 1250 Hancock St. in downtown Quincy. Validated parking is available in the Presidents Place Galleria Parking Garage accessed via Saville Avenue. From there participants will board a free park trolley as they head off to follow in Abigail's footsteps.

The first stop on the journey is the 1685 Abigail Smith Adams Birthplace in Weymouth. Visitors will be served tea and explore Abigail's home for the first 20 years of her life and where she met and later married John Adams.

The second stop is the John Quincy Adams Birthplace, part of the Adams National Historical Park in Quincy. There Abigail Adams will welcome guests to her home and entertain them with tales of her "domestic patriotism" during the turbulent years of the American Revolution.

The final stop is the United First Parish Church, Church of the Presidents in Quincy. There visitors will pay their respects at Abigail's tomb in the Adams Crypt and hear the stories of how this 191 year-old granite meeting house came to be the Church of two Presidents and two First Ladies.

Space on each of these two tours is limited to 24 people. The cost of the tour is $10 per person, and participants must purchase a ticket ahead of time to go on the tour.

Ticket reservations are on a first come, first served basis and can be found on Eventbrite using the title of the program. Limit of four tickets per reservation.

For more information, contact Bob Damon at 617.773.0062 or visitor-sprogram@ufpc.org.

Library Bookstore Sale Saturday

The Crane Library Bookstore celebrates its 8th year of bargain book-shopping in Quincy on Saturday, Nov. 2. On this special day the store is offering a buy-one-get-one-free value on all books and media materials.

About 10 years ago volunteers from The Friends of the Crane Library convened to discuss establishing a bookstore in the space which was the library's original Children's Room. They had previously been holding semi-annual, three-day book sales in the Community Room of the library and raising approximately $7,000 annually.

With key financial support from the Community Preservation Act and through the diligent oversight of former library director Ann McLaughlin and The Friends' leadership, this cozy library space was renovated, re-designed and stocked with donated material.

The bookstore has since become a local success, with last year's net proceeds amounting to $20,000 in support of library programs not funded by the city, such as concerts, lectures, museum passes, and the ever-popular children's programs.

For this anniversary, a wide variety of Christmas books and media will be available, as well as the store's usual specialty shelves including Shakespeare, the Classics, New England History, a 'New & Recent Fiction' section, and a children's corner.

Offering a variety (including TV series) of DVD's ($2) and CD's from every musical genre ($1), the shop sells hard cover books for $2 and paperbacks for $1, with even lower pricing for children's books and mass-market paperback novels.

The bookstore accepts resalable, gently-used donations which can be dropped off during store hours, or anytime at the library's main desk.

Sponsored and managed by devoted volunteers of The Friends of the Crane Library, the store is open on Thursday evenings from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with a separate entrance on Spear Street, in the rear of the historic Thomas Crane Public Library.

Union Congregational Church Fair Nov. 16

Union Congregational Church, corner of Beach Street and Rawson Road, Wollaston will hold a church fair on Saturday, Nov. 16, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There are a few tables available for any vendors or crafters who may be interested in renting them. If interested, contact the church at 617-479-6661 and leave a message or send an email to UccWoll@gmail.com.

'Fall For Poetry' At Crane Library Nov. 6

"Fall for Poetry," a Quincy area celebration of poetry, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 6 from 7 to 8:45 p.m. in the community meeting room of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

Sign up for open mic at 6:45 p.m.

The free event will begin with scheduled poets reading their own poems or a couple of poems by a favorite poet followed by open mic readers reading or reciting poems they have written or enjoyed.

Light refreshments will be available as well as parking in the library parking lot.

This is a walker and/or wheelchair accessible event sponsored by the Thomas Crane Public Library at 40 Washington St., Quincy Center, two blocks from the Quincy Center T stop on the Red Line, organized by Quincy poet Dona Luongo Stein.

For further information, call Clayton Cheever, assistant director, at the library at 617-376-1317.

NQHS Class of 1989 Reunion Nov. 16

North Quincy High School Class of 1989 will hold its 30th year reunion on Saturday, Nov. 16th at 7 p.m. at The Water Club in Quincy (Marina Bay).

Cost is $25 per person. Reconnect and catch up with old friends. Enjoy some lite appetizers and 80s music from DJ IZ.E.REAL.

Visit www.facebook.com/groups/NQHS1989/ or contact Walter Hubley at whubley@yahoo.com for tickets and more information.

Seaside Gardeners Fair Nov. 2

The Seaside Gardeners of Squantum will hold its annual Faire for All Seasons Saturday, Nov. 2 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Kennedy Senior Center, 440 East Squantum St., North Quincy.

There will be crafts for sale as well as homemade baked goods and a Seaside Treasures table.

Pat's Cafe will also be open for a light lunch.

Preschool Discovery @ Wollaston

Drop by the Wollaston Library with your preschooler any time between 10 and 11 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 7th to do some fun simple science together. Activities, experiments and instructions will be provided for science you can do with your child.

Celebrate Dinovember and dig up some dinosaurs this month! We'll sort dinosaurs, look at dinosaur footprints and diets, and try to dig up a (plastic) fossil or two!

Book Clubs for Kids

Do you like to read? Would you like to talk to others about books? Then you will like our book discussion groups. Join us each month to discuss all kinds of books.

The Night Owls Book Club for children in grades 3 and 4 meets at 7 p.m. on the 2nd Thursday of each month.

On Nov. 14th we will be discussing Cardboard Kingdom by Chad Sell.

Welcome to a neighborhood of kids who transform ordinary boxes into colorful costumes, and their ordinary block into cardboard kingdom. This is the summer when sixteen kids encounter knights and rogues, robots and monsters--and their own inner demons--on one last quest before school starts again.

In the Cardboard Kingdom, you can be anything you want to be--imagine that!

The Phoenix Book Club for children in grades 5-8 meets at 7 p.m. on the second Tuesday of each month to discuss a variety of books. This month we'll be meeting on Nov. 12th.

In 1984 author Chris Van Allsburg published a very unusual book titled The Mysteries of Harris Burdick. Instead of his usual picture book with a single story, he presented 14 illustrations, each from a different story. Each illustration had a different title and a single line from its story to go with it. But the stories were never written. The illustrations, titles and lines are all there is, leaving the reader to imagine the rest. In 2011 a collection of short stories based on the illustrations and written by well-known children's authors was released, titled The Chronicles of Harris Burdick.

This month we'll all be looking through the illustrations in The Mysteries of Harris Burdick, then choosing at least one story from The Chronicles of Harris

Burdick to read. If you find yourself inspired by the illustrations as the authors in The Chronicles of Harris Burdick were, go ahead and write a story or make some notes and tell us what you think about one of the mysterious pictures. Please grab a copy of each book!

Too busy to join us this month? Stop by the library anytime to find out what we'll be reading next month and join us then.

Chickadees Book Club for children in grades 1 and 2 - This group works a little bit differently than our other book groups, sort of a cross between book group and storytime. Registration is required and is limited to Quincy residents. Registration for the second session begins on Monday, Nov. 4th online at thomascranelibrary.org, by phone at 617-376-1300 x4 or in person at the Main Library Children's Room.

The Chickadees will meet on Monday, Nov. 18, 25, Dec. 2, 9 and 16, at 6:30 p.m.

Using short stories and early readers as our text we'll have fun with simple games and crafts while reinforcing key reading and discussion skills in this fun and interactive program.

Questions? Stop by or call the Children's Room at 617-376-1300 x4 and ask for Mrs. Miller.

Saturday Storytime

Join children's librarian Cathy deVeer at the Main Library on Saturday, Nov. 9th at 10 a.m. for a Storytime full of stories, songs and more about Dinosaurs.

This program is for children ages 2-5 accompanied by an adult. No registration required.

Concert with Liz Buchanan

Join Musician Liz Buchanan on Saturday, Nov. 16th at 10 a.m. for a concert of music especially for preschool children and their families. In celebration of

Mashed Potato Puffs

By MARIE

Do you ever have left-over mashed potatoes and they sit in the refrigerator and sometimes just waste away because you couldn't figure out what to do with them?

Well today's recipe is a wonderful way to use those left-over potatoes. This dish is so good and easy that if you don't have any left-over potatoes it would be worth it to make them from scratch.

I found this recipe in a cooking magazine and know you will enjoy its delicious simplicity as much as I did.

Pre-heat oven to 400 degrees and grease muffin pan

Ingredients

- 1/4 cup bacon bits
- 1/4 cup scallions, chopped

- 2 cups mashed potato
- 3 eggs
- Black pepper to taste (optional)
- 1 small green bell pepper, thinly diced
- 1 cup of cheddar cheese, shredded
- 1/4 cup parmesan cheese, grated

Mix the mashed potatoes, eggs, cheddar cheese, bacon bits, green pepper and scallions until well blended.

Add black pepper to mixture if using.

In the greased muffin tin mound a heaping spoonful (roughly) of the mixture in each muffin cup, do not smooth down because it makes a better crust when not smoothed down.

Sprinkle each cup with parmesan cheese.

Bake in a 400 degree oven for 35 minutes or until golden brown.

Cool for 5 minutes and serve with sour cream if preferred.

Elana's Pantry Everything Bagels

By SUSIE

Here is a recipe for a very healthy bagel that is loaded with protein, fiber, and nutrients and contain no grains for those who are watching their carbohydrate intake.

This is a great recipe for diabetics and for those watching their blood sugar and weight. A regular bagel is loaded with unhealthy carbohydrates, and are basically nutrient depleted.

But, who doesn't like a warm toasty bagel in the morning with their tea? If you don't have a pastry bag, just use a ziploc baggie with the tip snipped off. The recipe comes from "Elana's Pantry" website.

"EVERYTHING BAGELS" -

These make 50 mini bagels!

- 1 1/2 cups almond flour
- 1/4 cup golden flax meal
- 1 tablespoon coconut flour

- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon sea salt
- 5 large eggs (Remember, don't be afraid of eggs. They used to be demonized in regards to cholesterol numbers, but have rightfully been vindicated.)
- 2 tablespoons apple cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon each of poppy seeds, sesame seeds, and onion flakes

In a food processor, pulse almond flour, flax meal, coconut flour, baking soda, and salt.

Add eggs and vinegar and pulse thoroughly until combined.

Fit a pastry bag with a 3/8 round tip and fill with batter.

Pipe into a greased mini donut pan.

Sprinkle with seeds and onion flakes.

Bake at 350 for about 15 minutes.

Let cool for 10 minutes. Enjoy!

Frontotemporal Dementia: Signs, Causes, Risk Factors

A Message From Ruth Jones, City Of Quincy Health Commissioner

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

Frontotemporal dementia, also known as frontotemporal lobar degeneration, is a general designate for an assorted group of uncommon disorders that primarily affect the frontal and temporal lobes of the brain. These areas of the brain are typically associated with personality, behavior and language.

In frontotemporal dementia, portions of these lobes shrink (atrophy). Signs and symptoms vary, depending upon the area of the brain affected. Some people with frontotemporal dementia experience dramatic changes in their personality and become socially inappropriate, impulsive or emotionally indifferent, while others lose their ability to utilize language. Frontotemporal dementia is often misdiagnosed as a psychiatric problem or as Alzheimer's disease; however, frontotemporal dementia tends to occur at a younger age than Alzheimer's disease, commonly between the ages of 40 and 45.

It has long been a particular challenge for scientists to identify specifically which diseases fall into the category of frontotemporal dementia. The signs and symptoms may differ significantly from one individual to another. Researchers have characterized several clusters of symptoms that have a tendency to arise together and are dominant in subgroups of people with the condition. In addition, several symptom clusters may be evident in the same person. The signs and symptoms of frontotemporal dementia progressively worsen with time, virtually always over years. Eventually, those afflicted will require 24-hour care.

Behavioral changes

The most frequent signs and symptoms of frontotemporal dementia involve extreme changes in behavior and personality. These include:

- Increasingly inappropriate actions
- Loss of empathy and other interpersonal skills
- Lack of judgment and inhibition
- Apathy
- Repetitive compulsive behavior
- A deterioration in personal hygiene
- Changes in eating habits, predominantly overeating
- Oral exploration and consumption of inedible objects
- Lack of awareness of thinking or behavioral changes

Speech and language problems

Some subtypes of frontotemporal dementia are discernable by the impairment or loss of speech and associated language difficulties. Two types of primary progressive aphasia are considered frontotemporal dementia. Primary progressive aphasia is characterized by an increasing difficulty in using and understanding written and spoken language. For example, people may have trouble finding the right word to use in speech or naming objects.

• Semantic dementia is one type of primary progressive aphasia. Individuals with semantic dementia have noticeable difficulty naming and may replace a specific word with a more general word such as "it" for pen. They may also lose knowledge of the meaning of particular words.

• Progressive agrammatic aphasia is another type of primary progressive aphasia characterized by nonfluent and hesitant speech. People with this disorder struggle to get words out, speak in very abrupt sentences and leave out words. Speech may sound telegraphic with the improper use of pronouns and errors in sentence construction.

Movement disorders

Rarer subtypes of frontotemporal dementia are characterized by issues with movement, similar to those associated with Parkinson's disease or amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

Movement-related signs and symptoms may include:

- Tremor
- Rigidity
- Muscle spasms
- Poor coordination
- Difficulty swallowing
- Muscle weakness

Causes

In frontotemporal dementia, the frontal and temporal lobes of the brain shrink. Frequently, the cause of this disorder is unknown. Though several different gene mutations have been linked to particular subtypes of frontotemporal dementia, typically more than half of the people who develop frontotemporal dementia have no documented family history of dementia.

Frontotemporal lobar degeneration is separated into two main subtypes, one involving the buildup of a protein called tau in the brain and one involving the protein TDP-43 in the brain. In some instances, the affected parts of the brain contain microscopic abnormal tau protein-filled structures that develop within brain cells (Pick bodies). Frontotemporal dementia was once referred to as Pick's disease, but now that terminology is reserved for the subtype that specifically features these abnormal structures. Recently, researchers have confirmed mutual genetics and molecular pathways amongst frontotemporal dementia and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS). The significance of these correlations is currently being explored.

Risk factors

A person's risk of developing frontotemporal dementia is escalated if they possess a family history of dementia. Otherwise, there are no other known risk factors.

Ruth Jones is the health commissioner for the City of Quincy.

Four Tips For Flu Season

By GREG FRANK, Ph.D.

You know the signs. The thunderous cough. The pounding headache. The full-body fatigue.

It's the flu. Last fall and winter, influenza sickened roughly 40 million Americans and killed 60,000, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

This year's flu season is nearly upon us. Here are four tips to stay healthy.

1. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. People should get the flu vaccine early. Every year, this shot prevents up to 6.7 million flu cases, 87,000 hospitalizations, and 10,000 deaths. The vaccine also helps makes the flu less severe for those who do catch it.

The CDC recommends obtaining a flu shot no later than the end of October. The treatment takes around two weeks to become fully effective, so there's no time to waste.

2. Your mom was right: If you do fall ill, remember your mother's advice. Drink lots of fluids. Juice, Gatorade, herbal teas, and chicken soup can help fight dehydration. Menthol ointments and humidifiers break up mucus and make it easier to breathe. These treatments aren't fancy, but they provide real relief.

3. Remember that antibiotics won't help. Influenza is caused by a virus. Antibiotics, which only treat bacterial infections, are completely useless against viruses.

Not all patients realize this. Many clamor for antibiotics at the first sign of flu-like symptoms.

Such antibiotics won't make people feel any better. In fact, needlessly taking antibiotics increases people's risk of future infections. It gives bacteria an opportunity to evolve and become immune to treatments -- a phenomenon known as "antimicrobial resistance."

4. Antibiotics come with risks. Antibiotic overuse accelerates the spread of drug-resistant bacteria known as "superbugs," which already kill over 160,000 Americans every year.

To fight these superbugs,

Congress is currently considering the Developing an Innovative Strategy for Antimicrobial Resistant Microorganisms Act, or DISARM. This bill would incentivize hospitals to use antibiotics appropriately and sparingly. It would also encourage researchers to develop new antibiotics. Along with a package of market incentives for new treatments, the DISARM Act could save thousands of lives.

So remember -- get your shots early, follow your mother's advice, and don't jeopardize your health by needlessly taking antibiotics.

Re-Elect
KATHY HUBLEY
for SCHOOL COMMITTEE

I truly care about our schools and our community. I first started volunteering with my children's schools when they enrolled in 2004, and have continued volunteering ever since.

Family involvement is critical for our students' education and sends an unmistakable message about the importance of their education. As a member of the School Committee, I work hard to be involved and accessible to families across the city.

Families, teachers, administrators, and the school committee form an important partnership. Together, we have built an amazing school system, but there is so much more work to do. I respectfully ask for your vote on Tuesday, November 5th. Thank you!

Social Security Matters

What Should I Know About Social Security?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I'm 59 years old. When do I need to start looking at what's available for me - when I start getting closer to age 65? Signed: Planning Ahead

Dear Planning Ahead: Kudos to you for thinking about Social Security in advance! Fifty-nine years of age is a great time to start planning. Your strategy may be different, depending on whether you are married, if you plan to continue working well into your sixties (or later), your health, and your expected longevity.

You have an 8-year window between ages 62 - 70 during which you can claim your benefits, and the age you claim will greatly influence the amount of your benefit. If you claim at age 62, your payment will be 30% less than it would be if you wait until your full retirement age (FRA), which for you is age 67. If you choose to delay past your FRA until age 70, your benefit will be 24% more than it will be at your FRA. Your full retirement age is when you get 100% of the benefit you have earned from a lifetime of working - claiming earlier will result in a lower benefit and claiming later (up to age 70) will mean a higher benefit (8% more per year of delay).

The age you claim should consider your plans for working, because if you claim earlier than your FRA and continue to work you'll be subject to Social Security's earnings limit until you reach your FRA. If you exceed the limit ($17,640 for 2019), SS will take back $1 for every $2 you are over the limit by withholding future benefits. The earnings limit goes up by about 2.5 times during the year you reach your FRA and goes away once you reach FRA. If you exceed the earnings limit SS will withhold benefits for as many months needed to recover what is due, which means you could go months without receiving any benefits. Although, at your FRA, you will get time credit for any months withheld (thus a benefit adjustment), it could (depending upon the amount) take many years to recover any withheld benefits.

Your health and expected longevity are key factors in determining the age to claim SS. The life-expectancy for the "average" man your age today is about 84. If your health and family history suggest you will enjoy at least average longevity, then delaying your claim to a later age will yield more in cumulative lifetime benefits, as well as a higher monthly payment. Conversely, if you're in poor health and expect less than average longevity, delaying may not be a practical option for you.

If you are married there are special considerations if your wife is, or was, a lower-earner or stay-at-home mom and has a smaller SS benefit than you. Your wife may be eligible for a spousal benefit from you and will also be eligible for a survivor benefit if you should predecease her. The widow's benefit your wife would be entitled to is based upon the actual amount you are receiving at your death. If you claim at age 62, your widow would get your age 62 benefit, but if you wait until later (up to 70) to claim, your widow gets the higher benefit you were receiving because you delayed claiming (if that's higher than her own).

Finally, your financial needs should be included in your planning. If your circumstances are such that you do not urgently need your Social Security benefits to live comfortably, then delaying your claim will provide you with a higher monthly benefit in retirement. If, on the other hand, you need the extra money to make ends meet, then claiming early makes sense (but beware of the earnings limit mentioned above).

By setting up your personal online account at www.ssa.gov you'll be able to see the benefit amounts you are estimated to receive at age 62, at your FRA, and at age 70. Having these numbers, and taking the above points into consideration, should allow you to develop a strategy for when you should claim your Social Security benefits.

Two Speakers At Congregation Beth Shalom Of The Blue Hills Nov. 2-3

Congregation Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills announces a weekend of exceptional speakers on Nov. 2nd and Nov. 3rd, which will be held in the synagogue sanctuary at 18 Shoolman Way in Milton.

Both events are open to the entire community.

As part of Shabbat services starting at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 2nd, the speaker will be David Matz from Neve Shalom/Wahat al-Salaam (Oasis of Peace), an Arab-Jewish organization committed to raising awareness across the United States about the Israeli/Palestinian conflict and the peace-building work of this incredible organization.

Matz will talk and answer questions about the work of Neve Shalom, which is the only organization of its kind in Israel. The event is open to anyone interested in understanding what goes on behind the scenes for those who are trying so hard to work towards peace.

On Nov. 3rd, the Sunday Brunch Speaker Series will feature Dr. Maxine Savitz, vice-president of the National Academy of Engineering. As an advisor to the President's Council for Science and Technology, she has served under three U.S. presidents. Apropos to the effort to ensure women's equality in the workplace, she will talk about what it was like to be one of a handful of women (most of whom were Jewish) at Bryn Mawr at a time when to be a woman in science was almost unheard of. She is the sister-in-law of Lesley Acton Savitz, Immediate Past President of Beth Shalom - Blue Hills.

The brunch begins at 10:15 a.m. with the speaker starting at approximately 11 a.m. A $5 donation for the brunch portion is requested to defray food costs, and a call or email to the congregation office is required for planning. The speaker portion can be attended for free. Congregation Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills is at 18 Shoolman Way (off Lodge Street) in Milton. Parking is limited, with overflow parking on nearby Pleasant St. There is no parking allowed on Lodge or Maitland Streets.

For more information or to RSVP for Brunch attendance, call 617-698-3394, email office@BethShalom-BlueHills.org, or visit www.BethShalomBlueHills.org.

Pepper Spray Class Nov. 4

The Quincy Police Department's Crime Prevention Unit announces another free personal safety program - by invitation only.

The pepper spray class is for anyone 18 and over.

The class will be held at the Quincy Police Station on Monday, Nov. 4th from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

The course will cover:

What is pepper spray, how to use pepper spray, when to use pepper spray, which pepper spray to get, where to get it and how to carry it as well as the effects of pepper spray and how to treat yourself to exposure, getting away from the attacker and legal ramifications of situations of use.

No one will be pepper sprayed during the class.

This class is by invitation only. Do not respond via Nextdoor.

To enroll or get additional information, contact Quincy Police Lt. Dan Minton at dminton@quincyma.gov.

Do not to bring pepper spray to the class.

Absentee Voting For Election Ends Monday

Absentee voting is under way for the Quincy municipal election.

Registered voters who wish to vote by absentee ballot can vote at the city election office, second floor,

City Hall (glass annex building) Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Absentee voting will continue until noon on Monday, Nov. 4.

The city election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 5. Polls will be open Nov. 5 from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The last day to register to vote for the municipal election was Oct. 16.

Children's Jewish Activity Program Campign Event

The Shalom Children Activity Program (SCAP), a year-long program sponsored by a collaborative partnership of South Shore synagogues and Jewish organizations, will hold its next event, "Classic Campfire Cookout, Singing & Storytelling," on Saturday, Nov. 16, from 5:15-7:45 p.m., at Temple Beth David of the South Shore, 1060 Randolph St., Canton, and Ponkapoag Pond in the Blue Hills.

Families with children up to age 8 who are looking for fun, social, engaging activities infused by Jewish values and experiences are invited to a classic campfire with all the fixin's. Has it been a while since you ate hot dogs and hamburgers, listened to stories, sang songs and ate s'mores by a nighttime campfire? Come breathe in the cool autumn air, enjoy ending Shabbat with Havdallah under the stars, and share this classic "love of the outdoors" experience with your child and other families with children.

The schedule: 5:45-6:15: Kosher hot dogs and hamburgers cookout with veggie option by request (BYO blanket or lawn chair); 6:15-7 p.m.: short stroll down to Ponkapoag Pond for storytelling (nothing frightening!); 7-7:45 p.m.: Sing classic and new campfire songs and make your own s'mores. Check-in is from 5:15-5:30 p.m. The program is free and begins at 5:30 p.m.

This event is for families with children up to 8 years old (siblings welcome), and is free, but registration is required. For directions, visit Google.com/maps/place/Temple+Beth+David+of+the+South+Shore.

The event has a maximum of 50 children, with priority by date of registration. Registration for this event is at: <http://shalomcap.com/?event=classic-campfire-cookout-singing-storytelling>. For questions or concerns, contact: shalomchildrenactivityprogram@gmail.com or visit our website at www.shalomcap.com.

For parents looking for some kind of Jewish family connection, SCAP's programs and events are a way to experience, create, and celebrate together while meeting other families living in your area. No-cost once-a-month programs take place through June 2020 from South Boston to the South Shore, and participants are welcome to come to one or all.

SCAP's partners include Cong. Beth Shalom of the Blue Hills, Milton; Temple Beth David of the South Shore, Canton; Temple Beth Shalom, Hull; Cong. Sha'aray Shalom, Hingham; B'nai Tikvah, Canton; Temple B'nai Shalom, Braintree; and JCC of Greater Boston. Shalom Children Activity Program is supported in part by a grant by CJP's South Area Planning Committee.

Lynch Announces District Recipients Of FEMA Grants

Rep. Stephen F. Lynch (D-MA-08) announces the final list of Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) grants that have been awarded to cities and towns within the 8th Congressional District.

Over the course of eight rounds, 11 fire departments within the district were awarded funding through FEMA's Assistance to Firefighters Grants (AFG) program, two fire departments received funding through the agency's Staffing for Adequate & Fire Emergency Response (SAFER) program and one city was awarded funding through the Fire Prevention & Safety Grant (FP&S) program.

"I am pleased to see 12 fire departments in the 8th Congressional District received this critical funding from FEMA," said Rep. Lynch. "Congratulations to all the Fire Chiefs and Mayors on securing these federal grants that will assist with the acquisition of gear, equipment and training. It is imperative we continue to provide our fire departments with the necessary funds so they can invest in components that help ensure our firefighters' health and safety."

"As always, for those towns who were not successful in this current round of FEMA grants, our office is available to provide support so that we will improve future opportunities of obtaining federal assistance in subsequent awards," Rep. Lynch added.

The AFG grants awarded to Massachusetts fire departments in the 8th Congressional District include:

- Boston – Federal share of $704,510 for wellness & fitness activities – firefighter cancer screening program.
- Bridgewater – Federal share of $18,452.72 for firefighter wellness & fitness screenings
- Brockton – Federal share of $572,728 for a fire pumper engine.
- Canton – Federal share of $85,718 for firefighter safety and survival training
- East Bridgewater – Federal share of $36,265 for firefighter protective gear, a face piece fit test unit, and firefighting hose

NICOLE L. CRISPO

City Clerk (Thư Ký Thành Phố)

Voters Decide Mayor, Council, School Seats Tuesday

Crispo based her estimate on past municipal elections. Turnout during the last city election in 2017, which did not include a mayoral race, was 26.22 percent with 15,692 of the 59,841 eligible voters casting ballots. In the 2015 city election, which featured a mayoral contest, turnout was 41.08 percent, with 22,455 of those 54,668 residents eligible to vote doing so.

Absentee balloting has already commenced and will continue through noon on Nov. 4 at City Hall. Crispo said 509 absentee ballots had been cast of Monday morning. A total of 805 absentee ballots were cast two years ago and 1,144 absentee ballots were cast in 2015.

The election will cost the city approximately $80,000, Crispo said, inclusive of all costs.

Topping the ballot this year is a race for a four-year mayoral term. The two candidates running to be Quincy's chief executive are incumbent Thomas Koch of 249 Newbury Ave. and first-time candidate Brenda Ryan of 14 Cranch St.

Koch and Ryan finished first and second, respectively, in the September preliminary election. Koch received 65.22 percent of the vote in the preliminary and Ryan finished with 19.48 percent. Tracey Dorgan of 108 Sherman St. finished third with 14.21 percent of the vote.

Koch, 56, was first elected mayor in 2007 and was re-elected to two-year terms in 2009, 2011 and 2013. In 2015, he was elected to a four-year term – the first in Quincy's history after voters approved doubling the mayoral term in a referendum two years prior. Koch was previously the head of the city's park department for 12 years, chief of staff to then mayor James Sheets for five years and director of the Council on Aging for three years.

Ryan, 49, is an author and researcher. She was formerly an intern on Capitol Hill, a legislative aide on Beacon Hill and school teacher.

If he is re-elected, Koch would become the longest-serving mayor in the city's history at the start of his new term in January. Two other mayors – Sheets and Amelio Della Chiesa – each served for 12 years. Della Chiesa served for four years under a Plan B form of government and then eight years under Plan A; Sheets' entire tenure was under Plan A, the city's current form of government.

Voters across the city will elect three at-large members in the City Council in Tuesday's election, choosing from a field of five candidates.

All three incumbent at-large councillors – Noel DiBona of 70 Chickatabot Rd., Nina Liang of 2 Williams St. and Anne Mahoney of 12 Ferriter St. – qualified for this year's ballot, as did challengers Frank Rubino of 5 Whiton Ave. and Joann Sullivan Cantor of 316 Fenno St.

DiBona, 44, and Liang, 31, are seeking their third two-year terms and Mahoney, 54, is running for her second term.

Both challengers are first-time candidates. Rubino, 34, is a business analyst and Sullivan Cantor, 56, listed her occupation as office support.

The race to represent Ward 1 on the council includes a rematch from the 2017 election, with David McCarthy of 48 Whitney Rd. facing a challenge from Joseph Murphy of 18 Macy St. Two years ago, McCarthy won the election after receiving 71.72 percent of the vote.

McCarthy, 58, is seeking his second term. Murphy, 42, is an administrator at MIT.

McCarthy and Murphy were the top two vote getters in the September preliminary. McCarthy received 61.2 percent of the vote in the preliminary and Murphy finished with 21.16 percent. A third candidate, Danielle Kempe of 1 Adams St., was third with 17.09 percent.

In Ward 3, incumbent Ian Cain of 8 Highpoint Cir. will face first-time candidate Eriberto Soto of 627 Adams St. Cain, 37, is seeking his third term. Soto, 41, is a controls technician.

Voters in Ward 5 will elect a new ward councillor Tuesday as incumbent Kirsten Hughes is not seeking re-election to the seat she has held since 2012. Two candidates are vying to replace her: newcomer Stephen Christo of 42 Standish Ave. and Charles Phelan Jr. of 298 Fenno St. Phelan formerly represented Ward 5 on the council from 1988 to 1996.

Christo, 62, is a retired CPA and consultant. Phelan, 62, was the city's IT director before retiring in 2018.

Incumbent William Harris of 74 Ashworth Rd. and first-time candidate William Isenberg of 36 Carle Rd. are running to represent Ward 6 on the council. Harris, 58, is seeking his third term. Isenberg, 36, is an attorney.

Tuesday's ballot also includes a four-person race for three seats on the School Committee.

Incumbents Paul Bregoli of 80 Willow Ave. and Kathryn Hubley of 44 Marion St. are both running for re-election. They are joined by first-time candidate Courtney Perdios of 86 Ruggles St. and Frank Santoro of 14 Lois Ter., who previously served two terms on the committee.

Bregoli, 71, and Hubley, 49, are both seeking their third four-year terms. Perdios, 39, is an editor at Boston University and a fitness instructor. Santoro, 70, is a retired educator.

The third incumbent school board member whose term expires after this year, James DeAmicis, is not seeking re-election. He is finishing his first term on the committee.

Two incumbent city councillors are unopposed next Tuesday. Ward 4's Brian Palmucci is seeking his sixth term and Ward 2's Brad Croall his fifth term.

KOCH FOR QUINCY

Vision. Integrity. Passion. Progress.

With a steady hand, Mayor Tom Koch has led Quincy to an era of historic strength. Soaring Schools. Safe Streets. Stable Finances. Protected Neighborhoods. Restored Parks. Targeted Growth. He loves our City, and it shows.

- Crime at historic lows in almost every major category — more than a 40 percent drop in some cases
- Three new schools and a fourth on the way paid for with more than $140 million to date in state grants
- Among the best-performing school districts — with the smallest class sizes — of any City in Massachusetts
- Major park improvements financed by fees paid by guests at the City's hotels — not local taxpayers
- After 40 years of decline, a revitalized downtown that is once again driving our economy
- Millions of dollars in state and federal funding for critical neighborhood infrastructure like roads, bridges, utilities, and flood relief
- Property tax increases less than half the state average the last two years and 8 percent lower than the state average over the last decade
- An unprecedented environmental resiliency program to protect our coastline and neighborhoods

Students Show Improvement In MCAS, MAP Tests

By TOM GORMAN

The majority of Quincy public school students have shown improvement in the latest MCAS and MAP assessment tests.

The district's curriculum and assessment team reviewed the results of the tests that were administered last spring during the Oct. 16 school committee meeting. The exams show year-to-year growth of student achievement in certain core academic areas.

The MCAS (Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System) test is administered by the state Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) in the spring and the MAP exam is conducted by the Oregon-based Northwest Evaluation Association in fall, winter, and spring.

The district's coordinator of data and assessment Marisa Forrester told the committee that overall, Quincy's MCAS scores bettered the previous year.

Students in grades 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 10 were tested in English Language Arts (ELA) and math with the Next Generation MCAS, taken online instead of the previous Legacy MCAS – a paper and pencil exam.

For grades 3 through 8, the spring exam marked the third year of the Next Generation exam while it was the first year for grade 10.

"We can get a nice comprehensive look for grades three through eight...and establishing a baseline for grades five through eight," said Forrester.

Grades 5 and 8 were tested in science, technology engineering (STE), the first year of the Next Generation exam in that area. In addition, grades 9 and 10 were tested in biology – grade 9 took the Next Gen test and grade 10 was administered the Legacy.

In ELA, the majority of students – 43 percent to 49 percent – met expectations while 14 percent to 16 percent scored in the top, exceeding expectations, category. Those falling in the partially meeting expectations ranged from 27 percent to 34 percent, and 6 percent to 13 percent scored in the bottom, not meeting expectations, category.

Over the past three years, overall ELA scores improved in all grades, but, grades 4, 5, 6, and 8 saw either stagnant or slight dips in scores from the previous year.

There were similar scores in math with 37 percent to 49 percent meeting expectations; 7 percent to 18 percent exceeding expectations; 34 percent to 40 percent partially meeting expectations; and 7 percent to 10 percent not meeting expectations.

Overall scores over the past three years in grades 6, 7, and 8 improved while there were slight dips in grades 3, 4, and 5.

In the STE exam, students in grades 5 and 8 scored 42 percent and 37 percent respectively in meeting expectations; 12 percent (grade 5) and 10 percent (grade 8) exceeding expectations; 33 percent (grade 5) and 41 percent (grade 8) partially meeting expectations; and both grades scoring 12 percent in not meeting expectations.

Grade 5 exceeded expectations in the STE exam while grade 8 scored partially meeting expectations.

There was 30 percent of Grade 10 students scoring in the top advanced category in the Legacy STE while 44 percent were proficient; 19 percent needed improvement; and 7 percent warning/failing.

As far as meeting achievement targets of elementary and middle school students in ELA, 4,086 regular education students improved, but, below target; 717 lowest performing students and 2,678 high needs students both met targets.

In math, 4,083 regular education students improved below target; 715 lowest performing students exceeded target; and 2,677 high needs met target.

At the high school level in ELA, 669 regular education students exceeded target; 153 lowest performing improved below target; and 363 high needs met target. There was no change in the STE scores for regular education students.

"In every single grade level, students increased their average scale and achievement scores from 2018 to 2019," said Forrester.

All non-high school students showed high "typical growth" in both ELA and math.

For high school students in both ELA and math, regular education students showed low "typical growth," lowest performing students had low growth; and high needs showed low "typical growth."

Forrester noted the large number of grade 10 students exceeding expectations on their first Next Gen math exam.

"To see 18 percent of grade 10 students exceeding expectations, the largest of all grade levels, is a nice success for mathematics for the high school," she said.

Forrester said that in most categories, Quincy students scored above state averages.

Referring to some dips in grades 3, 4, and 5 average scores, Forrester noted they dropped when the switch was made to the online test from the paper exam. Curriculum directors are working to implement more computer related lessons.

"The numbers dropped because of the computer-based test," she said. "We are working to incorporate more digital, technology-based items."

Forrester pointed to increases in grades 6, 7, and 8 scores in the online exam, particularly a better than 2 point hike for grade 6.

"Two points is considered statistically significant," she said. "This is really exciting to see especially with the computer-based testing over the past few years. That attributes to the students' writing pieces."

High school and non-high school English Language students showed improvement, but, below target in attaining English proficiency.

Chronic absenteeism for non-high school regular education students met target; lowest performing improved below target; and high needs met target. High school regular education and lowest performing students in this category exceeded targets and high needs met target.

There was no change in the four-year graduation cohort rate. Regular education students met the target in the extended engagement rate and high needs improved below target.

In the MAP exam, students in grades 2 through 7 were tested in reading and math and grades 4 through 7 were assessed in general science. The scores are compared from the tests administered in the fall and winter to the final exam in the spring.

In reading, all grades' growth scores were above the national average except grade 5 which tied. All

VFW, Houghs Neck Post 380 AL, Quincy Post 95 AL, Jewish War Veterans Post 193, Norfolk County Sheriff's Department, Gold Star families, USS Constitution Honor Guard, U.S. Coast Guard Honor Guard, Sea Cadets Squadron 7-Zulu, Sons of the Revolutionary War, Fire House Dixie Crew, North Quincy High School Junior ROTC, Boy and Girl Scouts, Brewster Ambulance, Wreath Across America, the National Guard, and the Quincy-North Quincy Marching Band.

Joining Seggerty in speaking at the ceremony will be Mayor Thomas Koch, City Council President Brad Croall, Bouchard and Nicholson. The Rev. John Swanson will give the invocation and benediction.

The Quincy High School chorus will sing the national anthem and LaFleur will sound "Taps."

Seggerty, a Maryland native, graduated from the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis in 1998 with Bachelor of Science in naval architecture. Following graduation, he attended flight school as a student naval aviator in Pensacola and Milton, Florida, where he was designated a naval aviator in 2000. After completion of initial SH-60B training with Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron

Light 41 (HSL-41), he reported to HSL-37 where he deployed to the Persian Gulf aboard the USS Fletcher (DD 996) and USS Chafee (DDG 90) in support of Operation Southern Watch and Iraqi Freedom.

Seggerty was next assigned to HELTRARON 18 (HT-18) in Milton, Florida, as a flight instructor in the TH-57B/C and served as the standardization officer for CAT III instructors. He also spent significant time at the Helicopter Instructor Training Unit (HITU) training incoming instructors. Following his time at the training command, Seggerty resigned his commission and joined the Selected Reserves with Joint Force Component Command - Network Warfare (JFCC-NW) now USCYBERCOM. While at JFCC-NW, he assisted the active component in various global exercises and was also a battle watch captain on the National Threat Operations Center (NTOC) watch floor. Upon becoming a full time support officer in 2010, he reported to Helicopter Sea Combat Squadron 85 (HSC-85) in San Diego, flying the MH-60S / HH-60H and serving as department head in the administration and safety departments. Following HSC-85 he served as a department head at HSC-21 in San Diego, flying the MH-60S and holding the billets of training officer, safety officer, and detachment officer in charge.

In 2013, Seggerty reported to the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California, where he graduated with a Master of Science in network operations and completed JPME Phase 1. His next assignment placed him as the operational support officer to the Commander Naval Forces Korea (CNFK) located in Busan, South Korea. During his tour, he programmed and executed an annual budget over $21 million in operational and exercise support to CNFK.

After CNFK, Seggerty reported to NOSC Pearl Harbor in March 2016 as the executive officer and became the commanding officer of NOSC Quincy in May 2018.

His awards include the Air Medal (3 Strike/Flight awards and a Single Action with Combat "V"), Navy Commendation Medal (3), and Navy Achievement Medal (2). He has logged more than 3,000 flight hours.

In the event of inclement weather, the observance will take place at noon in the Quincy High School gymnasium, 100 Coddington St. Call 617-376-1194 for day-of information.

Poetry Celebration At Crane Library Nov. 7

All lovers of well-crafted verse are invited to gather at the Thomas Crane Public Library on Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. for a community poetry reading, facilitated by local poet Dona Stein.

Come and hear poetry read by your neighbors and read poetry yourself, if you wish. Celebrate poetry!

Dona Luongo Stein, a former Stegner Fellow in Poetry at Stanford University, has received national and international poetry awards, residencies, and state and local grants for her work.

Her published works include Children of the Mafiosi, Heavenly Bodies, Entering the Labyrinth, and Leaving Greece. Stein has an MA in Medieval Literature, studied Ancient Greek at Harvard, and holds an MFA from Warren Wilson College, with additional course work at Pacifica Graduate Institute.

Stein's poems have been choreographed, set to music, and exhibited with paintings, sculptures, and in collage (permanent collection, University of California, Santa Cruz). Learn more about Dona and read a sample of her craft in this 2018 article from Mass Poetry: <http://www.masspoetry.org/newbookstein> grades exceeded the national average in math.

Quincy's science growth scores were below the national averages but achievement scores exceeded the national levels.

Explaining why the Quincy science scores were low, Forrester noted that the science test was given for the first time in Quincy in the middle of the school year and was not based on 32 weeks of instruction as the other tests.

"This was not a true measure," she said. "We are excited to administer the science exam again this year and will establish a baseline."

Officials said they are reviewing the MCAS and

MAP data and setting goals to improve scores in the 2020 tests by identifying areas of need and developing and implementing curriculum programs and lessons to address them.

"We use this data to formulate our district goals," said Erin Perkins, director of special education and elementary curriculum.

Holiday Hours OK'd; More License Board Notes

By SCOTT JACKSON

The Board of License Commissioners approved the business hours for holders of on- and off-premises alcohol licenses for the upcoming holiday season.

The board approved the hours for those licensees during its meeting on Oct. 22.

Retailers will be allowed to sell alcohol until 11:30 p.m. on Nov. 27, Dec. 24 and Dec. 31, the nights before Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day, respectively. The change gives them an extra half hour to sell alcohol.

Retailers are not allowed to sell alcohol on either Thanksgiving (Nov. 28) or Christmas (Dec. 25).

Bars and restaurants will not be allowed to sell alcohol until noon on Dec. 25.

Bars and restaurants will be able to stay open until 2 a.m. on New Year's Eve instead of 1 a.m.

All licensees can sell or deliver alcohol on New Year's Day.

In other business Oct. 22,

the board:

- Granted a special-use permit and one-day beer and wine licenses to the Quincy Chamber of Commerce for its annual holiday pop-up market. Tim Cahill, the chamber president, said this year's pop-up market will start on Nov. 29 and continue through Dec. 22. It will be located inside 1469 Hancock St. this year.

- Granted a special-use permit to Quincy Youth Soccer for its annual fall jamboree at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. The event will take place from noon to 5 p.m. on Nov. 10 and will feature food trucks this year.

- Granted a special-use permit and one-day beer and wine license to Granite Chin Promotions for a series of boxing matches it is hosting at the Quincy Armory on Hancock Street. The event takes place Nov. 27 from 6 to 10 p.m.

- Granted a special-use permit for Hamel-Lydon Chapel, 650 Hancock St., for a food truck that will set up shop on site during the Quincy Christmas Parade on Dec. 1.

- Granted a common victualler license to Beauty China Tea Store, located at 667 Hancock St. It will offer bubble tea, baked goods and sausages. The eatery will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

- Granted a common victualler license to Hissho Sushi, which is taking over the sushi preparation inside the Stop & Shop at 65 Newport Ave.

- Granted a motor II garage and repair license to RPM Motors and Sales, 165 Hancock St., following a change in ownership. The board also voted to increase the number of vehicles allowed on site from 15 to 23.

- Continued until a future meeting the hearing on the status of the retail beer and wine license previously granted to Richdale Convenience, formerly located at 1205 Hancock St. Rob Fleming, the attorney for the store owner, said his client is negotiating the purchase of a new site where the license could be used in the future.

Sons Of American Legion Veterans Day Ceremony At Flags Island Sunday

USAF Veteran Guy Ferris Featured Speaker

Squadron 294 of the Sons of the American Legion, Cyril P. Morrisette Post will conduct its annual Veterans Day Commemoration Ceremony at its "Flags for Vets Island" in Fort Square, Quincy, on Sunday, Nov. 3 at 1 p.m.

The featured speaker at this year's ceremony will be U.S. Air Force veteran Guy Ferris, a dual member of both the Morrisette Post and Squadron 294. Ferris received his commission as a Second Lieutenant upon graduation from The University of Notre Dame in 1968. He obtained his private pilot's license during senior year and was awarded the trophy as the "Flight Instruction Program Outstanding Cadet" for that year by his Air Force ROTC Unit, Detachment 225 "The Flyin' Irish." His first active-duty assignment was to complete Undergraduate Pilot Training at Reese Air Force Base, Texas, where he graduated first in his class and received The Commander's Trophy and his wings.

Upon completion of Pilot Instructor Training in the T-38 "Talon" at Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida, then First Lieutenant Ferris was assigned to the 97th Flying Training Squadron at Williams Air Force Base, Arizona, where he completed his Air Force commitment in 1973 having attained the rank of Captain.

While stationed at "Wille," as it was affectionately known, Ferris served as an Instructor Pilot or "IP" in storied "Beercan Flight." The T-38 is a supersonic, fighter-type aircraft used in the six-month advanced phase of pilot training. Over the course of eight classes, Ferris pinned wings on 26 new pilots, including four from The Republic of South Vietnam, one from Iran, and one from Norway. Two of those classes voted him as their "Outstanding IP" for their entire year in pilot training.

Since joining American Legion Post 294 in 2002 and later Squadron 294, Ferris has devoted himself to a number of duties and activities, including service as a vice commander, historian, and sergeant-at-arms for the Post and vice-commander, historian, and finance officer for the Squadron. He has also served in both units' color guards.

The theme of his presentation will be "Outstanding Veterans in My Life."

AAA: Gasoline Prices Up One Cent

Gasoline prices in Massachusetts are up one cent this week, according to AAA Northeast.

AAA Northeast's Oct. 28 survey of prices in Massachusetts finds self-serve, regular unleaded averaging $2.50 per gallon. Massachusetts's price is 10 cents below the national average of $2.60. A year ago at this time, the average price in Massachusetts was 30 cents higher at $2.80 per gallon.

"Across the country, we saw a jump in gasoline demand combined with a draw-down in gasoline stocks, which may account for the penny increase in Massachusetts today," said Mary Maguire, director, Public and Legislative Affairs. "Refinery maintenance also continues across the country, which can also have the effect of boosting the price a bit."

The range in prices in the latest AAA survey for unleaded regular is 76 cents; from a low of $2.29 to a high of $3.05. AAA advises motorists to shop around for the best prices in their area. Remember to slow down and move over for any emergency vehicles on the side of the road.

Hospital Hill Neighborhoods Association: 114 Whitwell St. Development Should Be Smart, Responsible, Appropriate

To the Editor:

In 2016, when FoxRock Properties purchased 114 Whitwell St., neighbors were optimistic about the future of the former Quincy City Hospital site. The Hospital Hill Neighborhoods Association (HHNA), representing over 120 families, long advocated for responsible redevelopment of the underutilized property. We welcome a residential development and the new neighbors it will bring to our community.

However when FoxRock revealed their plans in May 2019, it was clear that their vision was neither compatible with the scale of surrounding homes nor with comparable developments around our city.

FoxRock's current proposal consists of a 465-unit development, with a total of 632 bedrooms contained in buildings up to six stories in height. All of this will be located on approximately 11 acres (Glendale Park - 4 acres of steep wooded area - is undevelopable). This proposed campus is similar in size to the Elevation apartment complex located in Crown Colony. But unlike Elevation, located on industrial zoned land and surrounded by highway access ramps, 114 Whitwell St. is in the middle of an established neighborhood of single, two and three-family homes.

During the first two public hearings on FoxRock's proposal, HHNA provided objective analysis that shows the project does not fit the character and scale of our neighborhood. As proposed, this development would result in 31 dwelling units per acre of land, including the area of Glendale Park (42 units/acre when you exclude the park.) Other Residential Planned Unit Developments (PUDs) average 21 units/acre, while the surrounding neighborhood has a density of 7 units/acre. The requirements for a PUD are relatively free from constraints when compared to other zoning districts, but the flexibility afforded to a developer of a PUD comes with greater responsibility to the community and additional approval discretion by the permit granting authority.

In revisions yet to be presented to the Planning Board, FoxRock made adjustments headlined by a reduction of 25 units. Yet at the same time FoxRock also 1) increased bedroom count by 14, 2) completely eliminated a 55-plus age restriction that originally applied to 90 units, and 3) increased the size of the development by over 20,000 sq ft. The net result leaves the expected population virtually unchanged while increasing the number of commuters and school age children. The developer also decreased the number of available parking spaces to 590. Overall, these latest changes amount to nothing more than a shell game while ignoring the most significant concerns of the surrounding neighbors.

Unfortunately, FoxRock maintains that discussions about unit count are - in their view - "arbitrary" and "both inappropriate and counterproductive." This is absurd, as the impact of 465 units on the surrounding neighborhood is clear: For the abutters, privacy will be lost as the proposed development will loom over their homes, which for many is their largest investment. For those that live in the surrounding neighborhood the impact will be significant as well. Traffic will increase. The wait time at key intersections will increase so as to accommodate the added vehicles. Intersections already deemed "high risk" to pedestrians will be made even more dangerous.

Amazingly, FoxRock has proposed little to mitigate the impacts of this development on the surrounding areas. Few commitments have been made to implement effective traffic calming measures on Whitwell Street or to improve intersections that would see additional traffic. FoxRock has also failed to fully identify - let alone suggest improvements to - the pedestrian ways that its residents would utilize.

Many concerns of our neighbors are mitigated with a meaningful reduction in the number of units. Contrary to FoxRock's position, a discussion about unit count is relevant and entirely appropriate. HHNA desires to have that discussion and to come to a compromise with the developer.

Six city councillors have spoken before the Planning Board in support of the neighborhood and have told FoxRock that their proposal is simply too big. So have over 40 residents who have written to the Planning Board, 61 who have signed in opposition to the current plan, and the standing-room-only audiences who packed City Hall on two previous occasions.

The Planning Board's next public hearing on this development is scheduled to continue on Nov. 7th at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall. We ask that citizens from across Quincy attend to voice their opinion. One of the great assets of Quincy is the strength of its neighborhoods - let's ensure that development in those neighborhoods remains smart, responsible and of appropriate scale.

A vote for Anne, is a vote for you!

In 2017, Anne promised she would be an independent City Councillor. She's kept that promise! While other candidates talk a good game, saying what they think you want to hear, they often vote along with the administration and developers. Looking out for their interests, not yours. Anne's approach is different. Always prepared, she asks the tough questions and stands up for the best interest of Quincy residents. Anne has scrutinized city spending, increased transparency, and stood up to overdevelopment - sometimes being the only vote against developments that hurt our neighborhoods. When reelected, she will continue to demand a better approach to attract businesses and amenities to our city and push for complete traffic and parking plans. She will continue to champion our schools and always include everyone in the conversation.

Student Enrollment Up, Class Sizes Still Acceptable

ten students. Since 2010, the district had an increase of 521 students.

"If we looked at the significance of this, it would be by site rather than the total," DeCristofaro said.

Looking at the 10-year enrollment by grade level, the numbers go up and down with no real overall significant differences. The exception would be kindergarten where in 2010 there were 744 students that hiked to 808 three years later, and this year, is at 779. By contrast, the high schools had 699 ten years ago and this year has 703.

This year, the biggest increases from last year were at Beechwood Knoll and Lincoln-Hancock, both up 31 students; Montclair gained 22; Atlantic Middle up 33; Point Webster Middle hiked by 35; and South-West Middle up 32.

DeCristofaro explained that both Point Webster and Atlantic picked up large grade 5 and 6 classes respectively from elementary schools this year resulting in the large class sizes.

The biggest declines this year were at Snug Harbor Elementary that has 36 less students and Broad Meadows, down 19.

Over the past 10 years, the elementary schools have added 50 students.

The majority of elementary school class sizes, 72 percent, have 20 or fewer students. There are some classes above that including seven at Montclair that have 23 students; four, grade 5 classes at South-West with 24, and at Parker, with two grade 3 classes, one with 23 and one with 24 students.

School committee member Paul Bregoli expressed concern with the Montclair enrollment and the several high class sizes.

"I look at Wollaston School just down the street and they have 100 less kids," he said.

DeCristofaro said that administrators would look at a resolution.

"There is space in the building, but it comes down to staffing," he said.

Bregoli suggested considering redrawing the school boundaries that would send more students to Wollaston to help even out Montclair.

"We should look at moving a couple of streets," he said.

DeCristofaro said the committee could look into that at its December meeting.

"It's something we should look at sooner rather than later," he said.

The middle schools picked up 68 more students over the past decade. This year, there are 86 percent of classes with 24 or fewer students. However, there are three classes with 28 students - two at Atlantic and one at Point Webster.

Bregoli said that although the middle school enrollment increase was small, nearly half of the hike was at Atlantic Middle.

DeCristofaro agreed.

"We're working on Atlantic to get (those class sizes) down," said DeCristofaro. "There is space in that building, but we need to make sure we staff it appropriately."

He explained that both Atlantic and Point Webster picked up large classes from elementary schools resulting in the high class size there this year.

DeCristofaro noted the middle school class size range, set by the school committee, is 24 to 28.

"We're really right on target," he said.

At the high school level, only 10 students have been gained over the past 10 years. North Quincy High has a total of 1,259 this year, up 8 from last year. Quincy High added 18 students this year with a total enrollment of 1,524.

Both high schools have 84 percent of classes with 25 or fewer students. North Quincy has 10 classes of 29 students and one class with 30. Quincy high has five classes with 28 students.

"I wish the class sizes were a little better," said DeCristofaro. "We're still working to get these down."

Open enrollment requests - where parents can request their child attend a different school - have declined at the elementary and middle schools the past four years.

For kindergarten in 2016, there were 85 requests and 45 granted with 20 of those granted being siblings. This year, there were 63 requests and 38 granted, with 20 being siblings.

At the elementary level, there were 81 requests in 2016 with 18 granted and this year, 40 requests and 20 granted.

Middle school requests in 2017 were 69 requests with 34 granted for grade 8; 42 requests and 29 granted last year for grade 7; and this year, 48 requests and 29 granted for grade 6.

The high schools' open enrollment increased from 2016 to this year - 95 requested and granted for grade 12 and 109 requested and granted this year for released and shortly after safely returned home to his wife and three sons. He recuperated and went on to complete a 30-year Navy career where he was promoted to captain and later became a clinical social worker specializing in addiction and post-traumatic stress disorder counseling.

On Oct. 19, veterans, residents, and officials joined Capt. Stratton, 88, his wife, Alice, and family to rename a section of Arlington Street in North Quincy as Stratton Way in honor of the hometown war hero. Stratton and his family unveiled a large, blue historical marker at the corner of Stratton Way and West Squantum Street detailing his life. The marker includes Stratton's observation about his captivity, "We never doubted you would get us home. We were blessed. We were Americans!"

Mayor Thomas Koch said that Stratton wasn't on board to have a street named in his honor.

"He was quite modest and wasn't receptive of the idea," he told nearly the 100 people gathered. "He felt others were more deserving. That tells you about who he is."

The mayor said he reached out to another Quincy native, Marine Gen. Joseph Dunford, who until recently served as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, seeking a keynote speaker for Stratton's ceremony. According to Koch, Vice Admiral Matthew Kohler, deputy chief of Naval Operations for Information Warfare and director of Naval Intelligence was selected.

Kohler said naming the street in Stratton's honor "is a fitting tribute to this American hero."

"It is so appropriate because Captain Stratton certainly continues to show those of us who followed his footsteps the path forward," he said. "We have the honor to recognize one of those heroes, his courage and commitment . . . a hometown boy who went on to a historic Navy career spanning three decades."

Kohler detailed how Stratton and others endured "isolation and horrors" as a prisoner of war. Stratton's capture became known as "The Stratton Incident" where a picture of him bowing to a North Vietnamese officer and reading a "so-called" confession during a propaganda event disguised as a press conference that was featured in Life magazine.

"This was not about submission," Kohler said. "Instead, Capt. Stratton used this so-called press conference to perform in such a way to raise doubt and confusion regarding the confession and gave proof to the fact that the North Vietnamese were indeed abusing prisoners of war."

Kohler said Stratton's Silver Star describes how his "captors completely ignored international agreements subjecting him to extreme mental and physical cruelties in an attempt to obtain military information and false confessions for propaganda purposes. Through his resistance to those brutalities, he contributed significantly to the eventual abandonment to harsh treatment by the North Vietnamese."

Kohler continued, "That is a true demonstration of honor, courage, and commitment. Today, I would think it appropriate to call the 'Stratton Incident' the 'Stratton Way' because it showed the light to all of us and it was classic Dick Stratton."

Upon his return home, Kohler said Stratton continued serving in the Navy

Kohler called Stratton an "inspiring leader who showed us the way to live with determination. He truly inspires and underscores what it means to be an American."

In addition to the Silver Star, Stratton was awarded the Legion of Merit with Valor, the Bronze Star with Valor, the Purple Heart, and the Prisoner of War Medal. He also earned two Air Medals and the Combat Action Ribbon and flew 22 combat missions. He served as chairman of the Department of Veterans Affairs Advisory Committee on Prisoners of War from 1989 to 1995.

The vice admiral also paid tribute to Stratton's wife Alice, who, also a clinical social worker, was appointed by President Ronald Reagan to serve as the first Deputy Undersecretary of the Navy for Personnel and Families in the 1980s.

"It is well known in the Navy that behind every successful sailor is a surprise spouse," Kohler said. "That spouse would be Alice. She has been along every inch of Dick's career. Dick's recognition today is also yours."

Kohler said the street should be known as Stratton's Way to honor "an amazing devoted couple."

Stratton's sons, Charlie, Patrick, and Don were also recognized by Kohler, noting that Don and Patrick are both marines.

Kohler said that Alice was once asked what helped her through the six year ordeal of not knowing what was happening to her husband during his captivity.

"She said it was many things, but predominantly it was a strong sense of community from his hometown of Quincy that helped her get through," he said. "You have something special in Quincy. To be honored by your hometown is more than can be expressed."

After finishing his remarks, Kohler turned and saluted Stratton, and then shook his hand.

Addressing the ceremony, Stratton said he often was asked how he survived the torture of being a prisoner of war. He related how there were studies that supposedly showed that it was such factors as survival training or being an officer.

"Not true," he said, explaining that he and his fellow prisoners took a survey to see why they were still persevering.

"It's family," Stratton said. "It was neighborhood. It was church. It was school, and looking out for one another. It was a sense of humor that only free people can know and joke about. This is what we had in common. It's family that holds us together. Quincy, North Quincy is part of my family."

Stratton, who grew up on Bowdoin Street, just a few blocks from his newly named street, noted that eight neighborhood people — six men and two women — volunteered to join the service during WWII. He noted that several Quincy natives

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL girls volleyball team are champions of the Patriot League Keenan Division and have earned a berth in the MIAA Div. 1 Central/East Sectional tournament. The 2-seed Presidents (18-2) will host 7-seed Belmont (11-8) next Monday, Nov. 4 at 6:30 p.m. at QHS. Front row (left to right) seniors Ally McMorow, Juliana Tracey, Julia Kapcia, Caroline Jaehnig and Brenna Tobin. Quincy Volleyball Bows To Canton, Tourney Bound

By TOM JOYCE

The Quincy High girls' volleyball team finished off their regular season schedule with yet another tough opponent.

The Presidents faced the Canton Bulldogs at home on Monday night and took their first 3-0 loss of the season. With the loss, the Presidents fell to 19-2 while Canton improved to 17-3 overall.

"We play Canton in the last game of the season for a reason," Jacqui Niosi said. "They're usually very good. Their defense is really good. Their offense is strong. You're not going to see many outside hitters better than the one they have. It's good preparation for post-season play."

In the first set, the Presidents fell behind early, forced to call a timeout when trailing 7-2. Canton then extended their lead to 11-2 before the Presidents could respond. The Presidents then went on a 5-0 scoring run with four of the points coming with Julia Kapcia serving. However, Canton answered right back with an 8-1 run to go up by 11 points, 19-8. Canton took the first set 25-13. This would be the lowest-scoring set for the Presidents in the match as the final two would end up being more competitive.

The Presidents got off to a hot start in the second set, going up 6-2 as Juliana Tracey tipped one over to fortify the early lead. Canton responded with a 6-2 run of their own, tying the match at eight apiece. It remained competitive over the next 12 points with the game being tied up at 10, 12 and 14 apiece. From there, however, Canton went on a 5-1 run, forcing the Presidents to call a timeout. The Presidents could not overcome the deficit. Canton won the set 25-18.

The final set of the match was the most competitive of the bunch. Allison McMorow made it 1-0 in the Presidents favor on a kill, then Canton went on a 6-3 run to give them an early two-point lead. The Presidents tied it back up at 11 on an ace from Alyssa Ruan and a kill from McMorow. The Presidents even took a 12-11 lead, but then Canton went on a 4-0 run, forcing a Presidents timeout.

The Presidents trailed 19-18 late in the set, but that was as close as they would come. Canton then had a kill to go up by two and they ended up winning the set 25-21.

"We started off the second and third games pretty competitive, but then we didn't maintain it," Niosi said. "I thought we had some good swings and matched their competitiveness. Our defense kind of just struggled in the end."

and 18 digs. McMorow shined on the attack with a team-best 10 kills.

The game against Canton was part of a string of tough opponents the Presidents had scheduled late in the regular season. On Oct. 21, they played Brockton (15-5) and fell 3-2 and on October 25, they faced Rockland (19-1). The Presidents handed Rockland their first loss of the season in a 3-2 victory. Plus, earlier in the year, they defeated Duxbury (17-3) on Oct. 2 in a 3-2 bout.

"We schedule all of those non-league teams at the end of the season just to make sure we're getting prepared for the playoffs so we can see the kinds of teams we'll see down the road," Niosi said. "Hopefully, it makes us better in the long run."

Overall, the Presidents excelled during the regular season. They won the Patriot League Keenan Division title. They won their first 17 straight contests. They defeated Duxbury and Rockland, who were both unde-

NQ Football Falls To Hanover, Hosts Oliver Ames Friday

By TOM JOYCE

The North Quincy High football team faced a tough Patriot League defense last Friday night and had a hard time moving the ball against it.

The Red Raiders faced the Hanover Indians on the road, a team which allowed just eight points per game in its last four games coming into this matchup. The defense continued to be strong for Hanover as the Red Raiders dropped the contest 33-6. With the loss, the Red Raiders fell to 2-5 on the season.

"When you play a good football team, and make early mistakes like that, you're going to get down fast," Red Raiders head coach Ryan Craig said. "We seemed to play well in spots, but we gave up big plays. Hanover executed very well tonight, although we did get some pressure up front on their quarterback in that first half. Hanover is a well-coached, well-disciplined team, with a lot of talent, and we wish them well in their playoff run."

The Red Raiders got stopped on their first drive, forced to punt on their fourth play of the game after gaining three yards combined on the first three plays. This set Hanover up for a scoring drive with the ball on the Red Raiders 41-yard line. They capitalized on this favorable field position and punched in a 15-yard touchdown run on a quarterback draw with 8:52 remaining in the first quarter. Hanover's extra point kick was good, putting them up 7-0.

The Red Raiders picked up a first down on the second drive of their game, but had to give Hanover the ball back on a punt. This set up a long and methodical scoring drive for Hanover, who used a healthy mix of runs and passes as they traveled 65 yards and used over six minutes of clock time. Ultimately, a three-yard run from their quarterback with four seconds left in the first quarter gave them a 13-0 lead. Hanover missed the extra point kick on their second touchdown.

Then, North Quincy fumbled on the subsequent kickoff, giving Hanover a strong field position — but they could not capitalize. A pair of holding penalties pushed the team back 20 yards, preventing them from capitalizing on the situation. The teams then traded punts on the following drives.

Hanover had to punt thanks to an aggressive pass rush for the Red Raiders. Colm Geary and Shane O'Connell got back-to-back sacks to bring up fourth down.

Hanover would score a third time in the first half with 2:14 remaining in the second quarter on a seven-yard halfback belly. However, their two-point conversion attempt failed, leaving the game at 19-0. On Hanover's final drive of the first half, Jackson Zhao had a sack and Jamal Maximilien broke up a pass, preventing another scoring opportunity.

On the first offensive play of the second half, Hanover extended their lead with a 84-yard touchdown run. That and a successful extra point kick put them up 26-0.

The Red Raiders got the ball back and eventually had to punt, but Thomas Murray pinned Hanover back at their own 14-yard line. The drive ended quickly with Tyler Le recovering a fumble at the Hanover 10-yard line. On the second play of the Red Raiders drive, they threw an interception, giving the ball back to Hanover. Then, Hanover scored on a 91-yard touchdown run with 3:58 left in the third quarter to go up 33-0 with a successful extra point kick.

With 6:23 left in the game, the Red Raiders would end up scoring a touchdown. The score came on a drive where Thomas Murray carried the ball five straight times for a total of 48 yards. His touchdown came on a six-yard run. He finished the day with seven carries for 47 yards.

As a result of the loss, the Red Raiders missed out on a spot in the MIAA Div. 4 South playoff bracket. However, that will not change the team's approach moving forward.

"We'll go back to the drawing board, reload and work on our execution, and doing the little things," Craig said. "We always play to win, and we have a great group of seniors who play as hard as possible, so we owe it to them to go as hard as we can over the next three games. This year, Thanksgiving is our playoff game."

The Red Raiders are scheduled to host Oliver Ames in a nonplayoff game Friday night at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. The game will follow the Quincy football game versus Braintree. The Presidents and Wamps' non-playoff game begins at 4 p.m. Quincy bowed to Scituate 28-14 last Friday night.

Quincy Coaching Squad Leading Hingham Football

By TOM JOYCE

The jerseys say Hingham, but it's a Quincy-heavy coaching staff leading the team to success.

The Hingham High School football team is off to a 6-1 start this season and will compete in the MIAA Division 3 South playoffs this week. Although it's an accomplishment for the town of Hingham, it is for the city of Quincy as well.

The team's head coach is Mark Nutley, the North Quincy head coach from 2013 to 2017. His assistant head coach is his old Thanksgiving Day rival, Bill Reardon, who served as the Presidents head coach from 2008 to 2017. And the team's quarterbacks coach Bob Noble is Reardon's predecessor; he was the Presidents head coach from 1999 to 2007.

"It's great," Nutley said. "I played with Coach Reardon. Coach Noble gave me my start coaching. Having them on the staff is great. I look at both of these guys as mentors, so it's a dream come true."

"It's been a lot of fun," Reardon added. "When we last were together in Quincy, we won the Atlantic Coast League title together with Coach Noble as the head coach. Then, Mark left us and coached at the college level for a few years, but it's great to be back together and having some success."

It's good."

This marks their first year since 2003 where these coaches, all of who are Quincy natives, are working together. Last year, Nutley and Reardon were part of the staff with former North Quincy head coach Jim Connor as the Hingham varsity head coach. However, Connor unexpectedly resigned after one season, citing personal reasons, leaving Nutley to take over as the head coach.

"The first thing I did was contact Coach Reardon and say, 'listen, I'm only staying if you're gonna stay,'" Nutley said. "We wanted to make it as easy as possible for the kids. That also played into the situation. Coach Reardon was on-board. I was on-board. So then we brought Coach Noble on and it was a perfect fit."

Of the two, Reardon was the first coach to join Connor's coaching staff since the two had coached together in the past; Nutley had coached with both of them, so that enticed him to come over as well.

"My kids are getting older and being the head coach is a lot of demand," Reardon said. "Family comes first, so something had to give. I took a step back and figured I could be an assistant. When I found out Coach Connor, a guy I coached with and respect, was going to be the head coach here, it was kind of a no-brainer at that point."

For Noble, the opportunity to coach with Nutley and Reardon was an ideal fit. Not only had he coached both players in high school and coached with them, but he previously served as a Hingham assistant football coach in 2016 and 2017.

"I'm very proud of them."

and what they've accomplished to date," Noble said of Nutley and Reardon. "Once the opportunity presented itself, I couldn't pass it up. They're individuals I'm very proud of and look at in a way as sons."

An assistant coach at Marshfield from 2008 to 2015, Noble previously had a two-year coaching stint in Hingham (2016 and 2017) when Chris Arouca, formerly Marshfield's offensive coordinator (and now the Marshfield head coach), was the Hingham head coach.

When Noble was last in Hingham, this year's senior class were sophomores, so he already knew many of the players.

"It certainly made it easier," he said. "I had some history with them, so I knew them. It made the transition simpler. Some of the things we're doing now are similar to what we did then. It made the transition much smoother."

Offensively, the team is thriving this season; they averaged 30.5 points per game through their first six games of the year.

While Reardon works with the team's running backs, Noble is the quarterbacks coach, a position he has worked with players at for more than a decade.

"I think it's great," Noble said. "That's part of the job I love. I have three young men here who are extremely coachable. They do what they've been asked to do. I've had the opportunity to coach some really good kids and have been extremely fortunate to do so. These three young men certainly fall into that category."

Hingham will play its first round playoff game this Friday, Nov. 1 against North Attleboro at home (7 p.m. kick off).

New Paint At United First Parish

By SCOTT JACKSON

A four-week project was recently undertaken to repaint wooden exterior features at the historic United First Parish Church.

The church, located on Hancock Street in Quincy Center, is known to many as the Church of the Presidents as it contains tombs of U.S. Presidents John and John Quincy Adams, and their wives, First Ladies Abigail and Louisa Adams. It is the only church in the country that is the final resting place of two presidents.

The $38,000 painting project began in mid-September and wound down last week, according to David Bousquin, the church's office and property manager.

The Rev. Rebecca Froom, the church's minister, said the project included new paint on the building's eaves, doors, and window shutters and trim. The doors were painted charcoal gray, the shutters dark green and the eaves and window trim a lighter shade of green.

Froom said the colors were selected because they reflect the original colors used in 1828 when the church's sanctuary was constructed; the addition in the rear of the building was added later in the 19th century. A 1990s report on the church's history was used to choose the colors used in the recent painting project.

"It allowed us to really select the colors as historically appropriate," Froom said in a recent phone interview.

Bousquin said the new paint job should last 12 to 15 years. The features in question were last painted in 2001.

The Quincy Community Preservation Committee allocated $30,000 to the church earlier this year for the exterior work. Froom said the remaining $8,000 came from the church's budget.

While the painting project is finished, Froom said the church is preparing for a new study that would outline options for providing a fire suppression system inside the building. That study will be completed next year.

The fire suppression system report will be completed using a $50,000 earmark from the Massachusetts Office of Travel and Tourism, Froom said. She said the state office periodically funds similar studies at historic sites throughout Massachusetts, and credited Sen. John Keenan for helping secure the grant the church received.

Electrical work completed at the church in recent years, including the installation of a new transformer, helped set the stage for the installation of a fire suppression system in the building.

"It's been in the works for a while," Froom said. "We've been doing the ground work for several years."

The governor said retail was once the driver of downtown areas, but a mix of uses is now needed in those locations.

"We have 351 cities and towns. Their downtowns historically were anchored by retail. That was the way you sort of created a vibrant downtown," Baker said. "Guess what? The aforementioned Amazon and other internet sellers have made it pretty hard to make a downtown work purely on the back of retail."

"Downtowns now need to be about housing, hospitality, entertainment, office space, recreation and retail."

Lt. Gov. Karyn Polito said the redevelopment of Quincy Center is one such example of a downtown area being transformed by new housing.

"Quincy laid down a marker a few years ago when you had to think about how to revitalize your downtown. You could have said we'll just build more office buildings and maybe we'll get some retail out of that, but you didn't. You said that really isn't the formula that will work; what will work is if we build housing near transit so people can get to their destinations [and] if you have people living in this downtown area all the time...then you're on to something because then you have a density of people that don't leave at the end of work day," Polito said.

"Because they live here, they want to do things. They want shops and restaurants and entertainment and culture and parks...now you have a vibe here and a feeling that it's a neighborhood - it's a place people want to spend time."

"What we want to do today is allow other communities to think about your formula for success and to think about how they can develop their vision around housing," the lieutenant governor added.

Polito said the legislation introduced by the administration would help meet the goal of creating 135,000 new units of housing by 2025. Meeting that goal, she said, would not be possible under the current zoning laws.

"Zoning hasn't been reformed for over 50 years in this commonwealth," Polito said. "In order for communities to reimagine like Quincy did, they need more modern, unique tools to work with."

Keenan, a Quincy Democrat, said he supported the bill because it would make it easier for future generations, like his own adult children, to stay in the communities where they grew up.

"They want to live here. We want them to live here. It's not going to happen with the way things presently are. Something is going to have to change, and one of the things that is going to have to change is obviously the generation of new housing. This proposal...will do that," Keenan said.

"It is critically important."

Koch said increasing the supply of housing would help keep costs in check.

"The folks who grew up in Quincy, whether they are buying or renting, are trying to afford it. Common sense says supply and demand," he said. "The reason rents continue to go up is because there isn't the supply we need. Even aside from building specific affordable housing units, just putting more units into the marketplace helps stabilize the rents."

"I certainly endorse the bill...with the hope the Legislature is going to pass it in the next few weeks and provide some great opportunities for so many generations to come."

Liang, whose restaurant group employs some 400 workers, said those workers often have difficulty finding housing they can afford.

"We often receive applications from job openings from all over the country, but one of the challenges that current and hopeful employees face is finding affordable and available housing in Quincy," he said.

"I grew up in Quincy and became a business owner here. I have witnessed and also been a part of this ever-changing city, and the antiquated zoning laws of yesterday are not serving the needs of today. That is why I endorse the governor's bill."

"My home is no longer the same as when I grew up here, and that's OK," Liang added. "We're growing."

Di Pesa, who owns an accounting firm in Marina Bay, said people want to move to Quincy because of what the city offers.

"We have everything here, but housing is really the key to staying here. As an employer, I can really appreciate that," Di Pesa said.

"The kids aren't staying in Boston. They're coming to the suburbs and they are particularly loving Quincy - I can go to Alba and Fuji and I meet people from all over the South Shore that want to come to Quincy."

"I'm very happy to be here, I'm very happy to have my business here and now to live here. I'm hoping the housing bill gets passed."

Downtown Construction Activities

Proposed work activities for the week of October 27th, 2019

- As early as this upcoming week, work will begin on Revere Road between Dennis Ryan Parkway and Mechanic Street to construct a new left turning lane from Revere Road onto Dennis Ryan Parkway. Once the new left turning lane is installed, the contractor will rebuild and put back the roadway in its original alignment along the side of the new City parking garage. The work is expected to take 4-6 weeks and will reduce the traffic from two lanes in each direction to one lane in each direction until completed.
- Work on Cottage Avenue continues for the upcoming week with the lining of sewer laterals, curbing work and gas work for the new apartment building. Work will take place between 7:00am and 4:00pm.
- There is proposed work which will take place on the lower half of Cottage Avenue between Cottage Street and Hancock Street this year. Work will include new sidewalks, streetlights and final roadway restoration.

I Don't Like My Partner's Friends

Your partner's friends are a big part of their life. They may have known your partner long before you two got together. They are the people your partner can get support from, unwind with, and explore new things with. But what happens when you really don't like your partner's friends?

First, ask yourself what you don't like about them. Do they make your partner feel bad about them self, encourage them to drink too much or take drugs, or use your partner for money? Those may be legitimate concerns, and reasons to address the issue with your partner.

You might not like your partner's friends because they take away time that you want to spend with your partner. You might feel jealous of how much fun they have with their friends, or wonder what they talk about when you are not around. Maybe their friends are single, and you worry that they will influence your partner to cheat on you.

If these are the reasons you don't like your partner's friends, you may be coming from a place of control rather than a place of concern. It is important to remember that your partner can (and should!) have supportive friendships outside of your relationship. Sometimes jealousy or insecurity can make us want to be the only source of joy for our partners. Being a supportive partner means encouraging your partner to make connections and nurture friendships.

John Roper Recipient Xaverian Brothers High School Award

John Roper of Quincy, a student at Xaverian Brothers High School, was recently named a recipient of the Brother Raymond Hoyt, C.F.X. Award for humility.

The award is named after a much-beloved alumnus, teacher, and assistant principal, who passed away in 2017. Brother Ray, a 1970 Xaverian graduate, served the school for 26 years with enthusiasm, positivity, and humility. In the spirit of Brother Ray's contribution to the Xaverian community, award recipients demonstrate kindness towards their neighbors, humility in their actions, and service to those in need.

Each month, faculty and staff are asked to nominate any students they feel meet the award criteria in one of six categories (descriptions below), including humility, kindness, work ethic, generosity, discipleship, and respect. A limited number of the nominees are selected by the administration each month of the school year. The first-ever recipients of this award were announced on Oct. 8.

Recipients of the humility award have demonstrated an act of helping others in the community without any fanfare. They are also students who recognize their own limitations while striving to get better through action and service.

"There are countless good deeds performed in our community on a daily basis and this award is one small way to recognize the altruism of our students," said Michael Nicholson, assistant principal for Student Life. He added, "Students arrive at Xaverian, bringing their unique gifts and talents. As we seek to educate the whole person, recognizing positive student behavior has the twofold benefit of affirming the individual in their act and serving as a positive example to our community."

AAA Reminds Motorists Slow Down, Move Over

Monday (Oct. 28th) was National First Responders Day, and AAA Northeast is using the occasion to remind drivers of the daily danger facing all those who assist motorists at the roadside — being struck by a motorist who is impaired, distracted, or unwilling to follow the law by slowing down and moving over.

"AAA roadside assistance technicians respond to more than 30 million calls for help each year, in many cases working on shoulders no wider than four feet," said Mary Maguire, AAA Northeast Director of Public and Legislative Affairs. "An average of 23 tow operators are killed at the roadside every year, meaning one service provider is killed in the line of duty every other week."

AAA's "Slow Down, Move Over" campaign reminds drivers that it's the law in all 50 states to slow down and move over or change lanes (if possible) to give roadside responders safe clearance to do their jobs.

AAA released a new public service announcement, prepared with the cooperation of the Boston Red Sox and the Massachusetts State Police.

"The next time you see a service vehicle at the roadside, slow down and move over," said Ms. Maguire. "Their lives are on your shoulders."

Council Opposes Opioid Lawsuit Settlement

By SCOTT JACKSON

The City Council has voiced its opposition to any settlement in Quincy's ongoing litigation against pharmaceutical companies for their role in the opioid epidemic.

Mayor Thomas Koch in October 2017 announced he had hired a Washington, D.C., law firm to sue the drug manufacturers for marketing and distributing opioid painkillers in Quincy. More than 2,000 lawsuits have been filed by state and local against the industry for similar claims.

Two Ohio counties agreed to a $260 million settlement with three drug distributors and one manufacturer on Oct. 21, just one hour before what could have been a landmark trial was set to begin.

The City Council on Oct. 21 unanimously passed a resolution saying Quincy should not enter into any such out-of-court settlement. Councillors Brian Palmucci and Nina Liang sponsored the measure.

Palmucci said a lawsuit is needed to bring to light the industry's wrongdoing.

"This lawsuit, I suggest, should go on because it will, through the course of litigation, show the great lengths that people went through to push these drugs into Quincy and communities across the country," Palmucci said.

"To allow them to settle — to essentially buy our silence — I think is wrong, and I think we should send a strong message today that we want the lawsuit to go forward."

"We don't want their blood money."

Liang said the effects of the opioid epidemic continue to ripple across Quincy to this day.

"I think it is an important stance for us to take as we continue to work together to address this serious issue," she said of rejecting the settlement. "It's still very much in front of us. It's still very much on the forefront of many people's minds here in the city."

each play an important role in making it a safe night.

"On Halloween, motorists need to be especially vigilant between the hours of 4 p.m. and midnight, when pedestrians are the most vulnerable," said Diana Imondi, Traffic Safety Programs Manager for AAA Northeast. "Slowing down, and watching for trick-or-treaters who may cross between cars or mid-block may save a life."

To help make the roadways safer this Halloween, AAA Northeast offers motorists a few easy tips:

- Avoid Neighborhood Shortcuts. If possible, avoid cutting through residential streets where trick-or-treaters are likely to be present.

- Watch for children in the street. Watch for children walking on streets, medians and curbs. Excited trick-or-treaters, often in dark costumes, may not pay attention to traffic and cross mid-block or between parked cars.

- Slow down. According to the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety, a pedestrian is more than twice as likely to be killed if hit by a car traveling 35 mph compared to 25 mph. What seems like a small difference – just 10 mph – can be the difference between life and death.

- Drive sober. Alcohol-impaired drivers make up about one-third of all motor vehicle deaths resulting in an average of one death every 45 minutes. Always designate a sober driver.

AAA also has tips for parents and children:

- Trick-or-treat together. AAA recommends that parents accompany youngsters at least until the age of 12.

- Make a plan. Review trick-or-treating safety precautions and plan the route ahead of time. Remind children never to cross the street mid-block or between parked cars.

- Check costumes. Choose disguises that don't obstruct vision and where possible use face paint instead of masks. Check and adjust the length of costumes to avoid tripping and add reflective material or tape to keep kids visible. Carry a flashlight.

- Buckle up. If driving trick-or-treaters between neighborhoods, always use appropriate car seats and have children exit and enter on the passenger side of the vehicle.

Barn Door Vs. Pocket Door

We need to economize space in planning an addition to our home. Please help us decide between a barn door and pocket doors. And, as I typically ask all of my contractors, what would you do in your house? Seth and Sam

Do you want the bad news first? Neither option offers complete privacy in terms of sound or light blocking, adds any resale value, and can be difficult to reinstall when they come off the track.

More bad news? Let's get it out of the way! Barn doors are heavy and not easily accessible for children and the physically challenged. Barn doors can block access to light switches and outlets when in the open position. Pockets doors can be considerably more expensive than barn doors and are difficult to install.

Now the positives! Both doors take up very little space and can functional as a stylish interior design element - almost like a piece of art in the room. Pocket doors come in a myriad of styles and don't block the wall when open. Barn doors are easier to install and maintain.

Personally, I don't care much for barn doors. I don't like the heavy - often black - hardware; it stands out too much in my opinion. I'd like them better if the door and hardware are painted the same color as the wall (it will make the room look bigger too!). Also, I like wall art; I would rather place a painting on the wall which you can't do with the barn door. Finally, I'm tired of the modern farmhouse style ... maybe I've seen way too many episodes of Fixer Upper.

Prep Trees For Winter With The Fall Five

Autumn in Quincy means the leaves are tinted maroon, orange and bronze. Luckily, tree experts say now is a great time to get outside, admire, and ensure all your trees are healthy.

The more time you spend preparing now, the less time you'll spend reacting in spring. Plus, your trees will emerge healthier and perform better when they awaken from dormancy. On the flip side, if plants enter winter stressed, their problems will only worsen.

Regardless of what weather lies ahead, play it safe, and keep your trees in pristine condition this winter with tips from George Barth, an ISA Certified Arborist® at Hartney Grey-mont, a Davey company.

Prep Trees for Winter with the Fall Five:

1. Plant. Fall is the optimal time to plant a tree. The mild weather and frequent rainfall help roots establish quickly and grow strong. Plant trees by the end of November. Choose a location that can accommodate the mature size of the tree, which will add value to the property for years to come.

2. Mulch. Trees benefit from a 2-4-inch blanket of mulch over as much of the root zone as possible. It acts as a moisture barrier and helps maintain a consistent soil temperature. Keep mulch 2-3 inches away from the trunk of the tree. Also, be sure not to pile it up against the trunk like a volcano, as that can trap moisture and create a cool hideaway that attracts fungus, disease, and pests.

3. Prune. Removing dead, diseased, or unsafe branches helps trees maintain a safe structure and tolerate high winds. Certified arborists specialize in knowing just what branches to remove (and how to do it) to reduce hazards. Well-maintained, properly pruned trees are less likely to break and cause damage in heavy wind, rain, and snow.

4. Fertilize. Even though trees appear dormant during winter months, their roots continue to grow and need nutrients. Apply a slow-release fertilizer to help keep trees nourished all winter long. Come spring, your trees will be blooming and ready to show off.

5. Keep pests away. Apply dormant oil in the fall to stop insect larvae from developing further. While dormant oils eliminate harmful pests, they're less toxic to beneficial bugs. In spring, you'll have fewer bugs gnawing on fresh tree buds and fruit.

Follow these guidelines to help trees stand strong all winter. If your trees need help, contact George Barth, your local Hartney Grey-mont arborist at hartney.com or by calling 866-901-

Sheriff McDermott Pledges Support For Autism Police Training

Norfolk County Sheriff Jerry P. McDermott recently pledged his support for a bill that would require autism training for police officers, as well as corrections officers.

Protecting the residents of Norfolk County with autism, is a top priority for Sheriff McDermott whose office is collaborating with organizations, such as Autism Speaks and The Arc of Massachusetts, to ensure the safety and security of those with autism spectrum disorder (ASD), both in the community, and those that may be in the care and custody of the Norfolk County Correctional Center.

H.2139, An Act Relative to 'Criminal Justice' Training Regarding Autistic Persons, sponsored by Rep.

Paul Tucker (D-Salem), will require training of law enforcement and correction officers in the appropriate interaction with people with autism who are victims or witnesses to crime, or suspected or convicted of crime.

"With this act, law enforcement officers and correction officers will be adequately trained in noticing the signs of autism spectrum disorder and how to appropriately interact with these individuals," said Leo Sarkissian, executive director of The Arc of Massachusetts. "Every year, numerous people with autism spectrum disorder and other disabilities suffer psychological trauma, physical injury, or even death as a result of misunderstanding.

This bill is a top priority for The Arc."

"As Sheriff, I want to be certain that our corrections officers and staff are trained to identify and handle the needs of those with autism," said Sheriff McDermott. "We owe it to the families of Norfolk County to maintain the most proficient and professional practices necessary in safeguarding the wellbeing of this unique population."

This bill, and similar legislation, was addressed in a hearing of the Joint Committee on Public Safety and Security this past July, and is now before the House Committee on Ways & Means. Supporters are hopeful it will go to the House of Representatives soon.

NORFOLK COUNTY Sheriff Jerry McDermott and Maura Sullivan of the Arc of MA.

Zoning Board Of Appeals Upholds Adams Street Permits

By SCOTT JACKSON

The Zoning Board of Appeals denied a neighbor's request to revoke the issuance of building permits for new homes being constructed on Adams Street.

Jeffrey Zynda, a Sturtevant Road resident, went before the board on Oct. 22 to appeal the building permits issued for 184-200 Adams St. Zynda said the previously single-family lot was being redeveloped into four single-family homes.

Zynda raised four issues in his appeal: One of the new lots lacked the 85 feet of frontage required because it borders a retaining wall he said was owned by the city; the same retaining wall would obscure at least one of four curb cuts along Adams Street for a new driveway; the project was not in compliance with the city's tree ordinance because trees were being removed; and the builder was violating restrictions in the zoning code related to earth removal.

"I would request that the construction of this site be stopped and that the permits be repealed until further investigation of these issues can occur," Zynda said.

He also noted the site is near Peacefield, part of the Adams National Historical Park, and called the new development an eyesore.

"This site is directly across from Adams National Park. It is a historic treasure," Zynda said. "The density of development that is being put on this site is a travesty - it is an absolute travesty and an eyesore across from one of our most remarkable sites in Quincy."

A dozen or so area residents in attendance at the Zoning Board of Appeals meeting applauded Zynda following his remarks.

Register O'Donnell Hosts Free Informational Computer Seminar

As part of an ongoing effort to promote land record research education and outreach to Norfolk County residents, Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell recently hosted a free informational computer seminar on land document research.

At the seminar, attendees were provided with a tutorial on how to navigate the Registry's online research page which is accessible via www.norfolkdeeds.org. Register O'Donnell and staff led a series of interactive teaching exercises on accessing land documents such as deeds, mortgages, Homesteads and mortgage discharges via the Registry's online computer system. The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds state-of-the-art computer system houses more than 8 million land documents dating back to its beginnings in 1793.

"We are very proud that our robust computer system allows for documents to be online immediately after recording," O'Donnell said. "Additionally, all documents are scanned and available for viewing within 24 business hours of recording."

For those attending the seminar, computer skills were not required. Each attendee received free reference materials, which they took home with them. Register O'Donnell and his team were on hand to assist attendees and answer questions.

"Attendees at the Oct. 23rd seminar learned how easy it is to look up land related documents. The skills learned at the seminar will allow attendees to do land document research from the comfort and convenience of their home or work computer," O'Donnell said.

Concluding his remarks, O'Donnell stated, "In this day and age, it is important that citizens know their government is working for them. These computer seminars are a great way for myself and my staff to engage the public in the important work done each and every day here at the Registry of Deeds. We are very appreciative of all who took time out from their busy schedules to attend the computer seminar. The feedback we have received indicates the seminars are very helpful for members of the general public and real estate professionals alike."

On Monday, Oct. 21, at approximately 2:20 a.m., Officers Wells, Wood, O'Hare, Keenan and Church were dispatched to Franklin Place for a report of two males "smashing vehicles with a baseball bat." The caller said the males were now hiding behind the vehicle as the police were arriving.

Officer Wood arrived on scene first and radioed that he located one male holding a baseball bat near a damaged vehicle. Officers Keenan and Wells arrived on scene moments later to find the male face down on the pavement of the parking lot as directed by Officer Wood. The officers placed the suspect in handcuffs and learned from Officer Wood that as he entered Franklin Place he observed the suspect smashing the side window of a parked Ford van.

The officers then searched the area for the second suspect and soon after Officer O'Hare discovered the sandaled foot of a male hiding underneath a second Ford van parked nearby. This male was ordered to crawl out from underneath and once out he was immediately handcuffed. This suspect, who lives on Franklin Place, was read his Miranda rights by Officer Church. The suspect refused to respond and remained silent.

Now that the two suspects were handcuffed, Officer Wells had the opportunity to further assess the damage to the van, which was extensive. The windshield was completely spidered (impact blow with striations moving away from the point of impact) and shattered from approximately 7-10 points of impact. Both headlights were smashed out, the side passenger mirror knocked completely off and all three passenger side windows as well as the driver's side window were smashed with most of the glass blown completely out.

On the ground by the rear side passenger door of the van was another baseball bat utilized in the crime along with a canvas bag next to it. The bag was determined to be a 17-foot by 12-foot camping tent. A large section of the glass window next to the bag was pulled back so that the tent bag could be pulled out of the van. This was the only glass that was not blown into the interior of the vehicle by the impact of the bat.

Based upon the collective observations of all officer's on scene, the two males, 36 and 27 years old and both from Quincy, were placed under arrest and charged with breaking and entering into a motor vehicle/ night time and malicious destruction to a motor vehicle. The two suspects were transported to the station for booking and again afforded all rights but chose to remain silent. The victim and owner of the vehicle was contacted and advised of the incident.

ANOTHER JOB WELL DONE

On Sunday, Oct. 20, at approximately 5:25 p.m., Officers Ruggiero and Francis were dispatched to the Home Depot (177 Willard St.) on a shoplifting incident. QPD Communications stated Loss Prevention Officers (LPO) were detaining one male who attempted to leave the store with $1,000 of merchandise unpaid for.

Upon arrival the officers spoke with the LPOs who pointed out the suspect who was still in the store. The suspect was detained in the security office while Officer Ruggiero interviewed the LPO and learned the suspect had been trespassing by her in 2018 in the presence of a Boston Police Officer. The trespass notice was in effect for three years.

The LPO stated she began to monitor the suspect both in person and using the store's surveillance system, watching him fill up a shopping cart with various tools and then proceeded to remove the theft detector device off two of the products. The suspect then walked to the rear of the store and entered the shipping/receiving warehouse where he attempted to leave through a non-customer door with no registers.

Officer Ruggiero inspected the shopping cart and observed two theft detector straps at the bottom of the cart not attached to any of the products inside. After waiving Miranda rights, the suspect said he intended to pay for the products and "It was all a misunderstanding." When asked about the removal of the theft detectors, the suspect said, "I admit it but I only removed two." When asked why he attempted to leave with the products through the door that did not have a register for purchases, the suspect said, "Because it was right across from the MBTA station."

Officer Ruggiero asked the suspect if he was ever trespassing from Home Depot by a police officer and he said, "Yeah a year ago at the South Bay store with a Boston police officer. It was for three years. Is that legal?" At this time the LPO produced a merchandise receipt showing that the suspect attempted to leave with $1,678.75 worth of merchandise.

The suspect, a 36-year-old Dorchester resident, was placed under arrest for aggravated shoplifting (shielding device removal) and trespassing. A copy of store security videos will be provided to the police for prosecution purposes. A check of the suspect's criminal record shows that he has a pending case in Somerville District Court for larceny over $1,200 and conspiracy.

Nice Work!

Many drivers apply their brakes first and then use their directional (or no directional use at all) at the last second to make the turn and then wonder why the driver behind them is so close or blaring their horn. Although the driver making the turn knows where he/she is going, other drivers do not.

Prevent an accident by using your directional well in advance of making the turn and before applying your brakes.

New Millstone Unveiled At Souther Tide Mill

Massachusetts Archaeology Month, October 2019

By KATHY DULLEA HOGAN

Recently two Quincy organizations – Friends of Souther Tide Mill plus the Quincy Quarry and Granite Workers Museum – successfully participated again in Massachusetts Archaeology Month. Each group hosted an open house in October, and they were well attended.

Friends of Souther Tide Mill also had a new millstone replica to unveil this year. The Oct. 5th event was attended by His Honor Mayor Thomas Koch, Ward 1 Councillor Dave McCarthy, Councillor-at-Large Noel DiBona, and Quincy 400's Bob Damon. The weather cooperated by presenting a perfect day to unveil the millstone and to show off the landscaping recently done at the tide mill. The millstone was crafted by John Monti of Monti Granite, Quincy, as described in a recent article. Jim Delisle donated his services in transporting the millstone and its base, and putting them in place.

The exceptional preparation of the grounds was done by Macauley Brothers Landscaping. A special thanks goes to Mr. Bernard Macauley for donating his time, labor, materials and skills to the project. His crew cut down brush and trees, which opened up a panoramic view of the tide mill and the water. Mums were planted around the new millstone and in the garden behind it.

The person responsible for pulling all this together is Frank Hogan, Board member of the Friends, who many months ago felt that something important was missing from this tide mill – a millstone. He was right. Now you see this fine stone when you drive by and you no longer wonder what kind of work used to be done here!

It was low tide this recent October morning that gave a perfect view of the blocks of Quincy granite which have supported the tide mill over Town River for more than 200 years. The center spindle for turning the millstone could also be seen. Back in the day, one end of the spindle – the one that was in the water – would have had paddles on it which would turn this spindle with the water pressure. The other end of the spindle – passing through the floor into the tide mill – was attached to the center of the millstone inside the building. As the spindle turned, it would turn the millstone inside, which would crush corn into flour, meal and grits.

Following the unveiling, the grounds of the mill were open to the public. Visitors had the opportunity to speak to a 19th century miller – aka Doug Morrill, historical reenactor and president of Friends of Souther Tide Mill. Wayne G. Miller, author of Quincy Massachusetts: A Shipbuilding

Tradition, offered copies of his book for sale. Chapter 2, "Souther's Wharf," gives us a look at the shipbuilding industry that John Souther Jr. began there when he purchased the business, which he ran in addition to running the grist mill, saw mill, and granite transport via Quincy Canal. He was an important employer in Quincy. Guests to the open house event could examine the workings of a tide mill with a model made by Amy Boyce, whose large poster showed the history and workings of Souther Tide Mill.

Student Enrollment Up, Class Sizes Still Acceptable

grade 9.

"Open enrollments are done very cautiously," said DeCristofaro. "We look at building capacity and space."

The superintendent said enrollment is always being monitored as it shifts during the year with families moving in and out of the city.

"We're always looking at what's trending to predict enrollment," he said.

In other matters, committee member Anthony Andronico informed the committee that the new school website is on track to be up and running next year. He said the city is working with a vendor to create a more user friendly and informative website.

Andronico also suggested that the special education subcommittee look into developing programs for the proposed new special education center. The city is planning to convert an office building on Old Colony Avenue into a center for special needs students. Andronico said he wants the center to "be everything that it needs to be for our students" and added that the center "has an unlimited potential."

Committee Vice Chairwoman Emily Lebo set several goals for the committee for the upcoming year including looking into expanding prekindergarten, forming a student advisory council, develop emotional and social learning courses, updating the literacy course, and identifying barriers to student learning.

Many pictures and drawings on exhibit helped people visualize what the buildings and equipment used to look like. Artifacts were on display, including parts of the original millstone and patterns from Quincy Lumber Co. Of course, popcorn was dispensed from a popcorn popper — because a grist mill grinds corn! Visitors also enjoyed a selection of delicious cookies from Ginger Betty's. Games such as hopscotch, jump rope and jigsaw puzzles were fun for kids while their parents pored over the exhibits. Some of the mill's workings can be seen on the outside of the building. Many visitors said they'd often wondered what this old building was and were pleased to get closer to it. They also wondered about the future of the site and could envision a waterfront park for the outside and a museum on the inside.

The Town River itself is a haven for wildlife such as snowy egrets, cormorants, ducks, geese and, this summer, osprey which could be seen there. At high tide a pleasant reflection of the tide mill can be seen on the water. It's such a pleasant place to just enjoy nature that it would be great if artists and photographers put their work on Friends of the Souther Tide Mill page on Facebook or send it to The Quincy Sun. It brings Rockport's "Motif #1" to mind. (Are we looking at our own "Motif #1 / Quincy"?)

By the way, a recent stroll through the park by Black's Creek at Wollaston Beach revealed a boulder with a story inscribed on it. We learned that Edmund Quincy IV owned that creek from the early 1700s till 1788 when it was sold to Moses Black. Quincy — the father-in-law of John Hancock — owned two tidal grist mills there.

THE FUTURE?

This little gem on Town River at Town Brook can position Quincy between past and future: An appreciation for our historic heritage as well as a look at the historic heritage that we can leave for future generations.

Can you envision a future use of the property for an alternative energy museum? In over 100 years of milling, of course not one unit of electricity or one gallon of gasoline was used for an energy source. Souther Tide Mill could be a model for wind and solar energy and, perhaps eventually, for tidal energy once again. Let's keep our nose to the grindstone (!) and do it!

The Friends of Souther Tide Mill also wishes to thank the following for their donations to the project:

Mayor Thomas Koch, Jon Caliri, Quincy Access TV; Norfolk County Register of Deeds William O'Donnell, state Rep. Tackey Chan, councillors Anne Mahoney, Noel DiBona and Nina Liang; Ginger Betty's for cookies and Quirk Nisan and CVS for sharing parking space.

Quincy Man Acquitted On Charges Of Killing Ex-Wife

By SCOTT JACKSON

A Norfolk Superior Court jury on Tuesday found a Quincy man not guilty on charges he killed his former wife by driving over her in the driveway outside of their shared home.

Yan Long Chow, age 57, was facing a charge of murder in the death of his former wife, Zhen Li. The jury began its deliberations Monday afternoon and returned its verdict before noon on Tuesday.

David Traub, the spokesman for Norfolk District Attorney Michael Morrissey, said the DA's office "respects the jury's verdict but has no further comment."

Quincy police responded to 21 Philips St., where Chow and Li resided, on Sept. 2, 2016 on a report of a single-vehicle collision within the driveway involving a pedestrian. Li, age 52, was pronounced dead at the scene.

A grand jury indicted Chow on the murder charge in March 2017.

The indictment alleged Chow drove over Li four separate times in the driveway on Sept. 2, 2016. Police said Li became stuck under the minivan the first time Chow struck her while driving forward up the driveway. Chow then put the Sienna into reverse, dragging Li underneath; Li's body then came out from under the vehicle in front of the van, at which point Chow drove forward over her body and then drove over her body again while backing up.

During the investigation into Li's death, police learned from family members and neighbors that she and Chow often argued, primarily about Chow's gambling, the indictment stated. They said Li had indicated to her mother she was upset with Chow the day before her death because he had not returned home for two days because he was gambling in Boston.

Chow and Li had been married in China before moving to the U.S., according to the indictment. They were divorced in 2005 while living in New Hampshire, but continued to live and work together until Li's death. Chow and Li had two adult children and shared ownership of a Boston restaurant.

Armed Robberies At Convenience Stores Linked, Police Say

By SCOTT JACKSON

Police believe one suspect is responsible for robbing four convenience stores in North Quincy and Wollaston at gunpoint since the middle of August.

The first of the four armed robberies took place at the Five Corners Market at 161 Newbury Ave. on Aug. 17, Sgt. Karyn Barkas said. The next took place on Aug. 20 at Mullaney's convenience store, 205 West Squantum St. The third happened on Sept. 21 at Everest Market, 121 Standish Ave., and the fourth took place on Oct. 17 at Sam's Variety, 125 Billings Rd.

Police believe the same person is responsible for all four of those armed robberies because the suspect descriptions and the manner of the crimes are similar, Barkas said.

"We do believe it is the same suspect," she said.

The suspect is described as a six-foot-tall black male with a thin build, she said. The suspect has been covering his face with a hood and mask, Barkas said, which means investigators have been unable to put together a sketch of him.

The weapon used in at least two of the robberies

— the ones at Everest and Mullaney's — was described as a two-toned black and silver semi-automatic handgun.

Barkas said patrol officers in the area have been made aware of the series of armed robberies.

Det. Jim Menz is leading the investigation into the armed robberies and anyone with information is asked to contact him at 617-745-5768 or via email at jamenz@quincyma.gov. Residents can also call the detectives' main line at 617-745-5764 or leave tips through the MyPD smartphone app.

OBITUARIES

Paul W. Skudris, 58

A funeral Mass for Paul William "Skud" Skudris, 58, of South Boston and Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Skudris died suddenly Oct. 23.

Born in Boston, he was the son of the late William J. Skudris, Jr. and Louise (Zaidan) Skudris. He attended local schools and graduated from the Quincy Vocational Technical High School with the class of 1979.

Mr. Skudris owned The Galley Diner in South Boston and loved to cook. He was known for preparing a feast and could feed an army. He loved to entertain and host his favorite holiday, Thanksgiving. He cherished Christmas time and always loved playing Santa Claus. In his spare time, Mr. Skudris enjoyed traveling to Cape Cod to stay at his summer home in Dennis and cruising to the Caribbean.

His family and children gave him the most enjoyment in his life and there wasn't anything he wouldn't do for the people he loved.

Mr. Skudris was the hardest working person his family knew. He was also jovial, a straight shooter, free spirit, and completely loyal and dependable. He will be missed by all the lives he touched.

He was the beloved spouse of Colleen M. Campbell, with whom he shared many loving years. He was the devoted father of Eileen M. Skudris and her fiancé

PAUL W. SKUDRIS

Trung Le of Quincy and Mary Louise Skudris and her boyfriend Zachary Purcell of Quincy. He was the dear brother of Marianne Flynn and her husband Bob of Falmouth and the dear brother in law of Marianne and Walter Dennis of Pembroke, Maureen and Paul Welch of New Hampshire, Joseph and Laura Campbell of Holbrook, Susan and Bob Marks of Canton, Ed and Janet Campbell of Abington, Kathy Campbell of Braintree and the late Eileen Campbell. Mr. Skudris was a cherished nephew of Marie Kleponis of Reading and Charlie Zaidan and his wife Beverly of Scituate. He is also survived by many loving nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Interment at Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the charitable organization of your choice.

Priscilla DelLongo, 82

A memorial gathering for Priscilla "Sheila" DelLongo, 82, of Quincy will be held Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in The Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

Mrs. DelLongo died Oct. 16.

Loving wife of Roger DelLongo of Quincy. Devoted mother of the late Lorraine J. Reardon, Paul E. Reardon and his wife Andrea of Medfield, Denise C. Reardon of Quincy, Peter Reardon of Quincy, Janet M. Chidester and her husband Chip of Fairfax, Timothy J. Reardon and his wife Karen of Florida, Kimberly A. DelLongo-Curtin and her husband Michael of Braintree. Cherished grandmother of 9 grandchildren. Sister-in-law of Denise Conway and her husband William of Hull. She is also survived by many nieces, nephews, extended family both here and in the UK and many dear friends.

Mrs. DelLongo was born and raised in London and had her British citizenship. She was the youngest of 11 born to the late James and Julia Cowper. She left the UK in 1958 and settled in Quincy with her first husband the late Paul E. Reardon and her infant daughter. Sheila met Roger in 1970 and they were married in 1973.

Family was her life and she was the consummate homemaker, teaching her kids great manners. Mrs. DelLongo was a great seamstress and cook. She enjoyed knitting and making many different clothing items, especially Halloween costumes, for her family. She also enjoyed ceramics making many bowls, lamps and many other items over the years.

Funeral arrangements were made by Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 650 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Marisa's Mission, Inc., P.O. Box 850061, Braintree, MA 02185.

Janet P. Mullins, 77

Memorial visitation for Janet P. (Erikson) Mullins, 77, of Quincy was held Tuesday in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mrs. Mullins died Oct. 22.

Born in Lynn, she was a daughter of the late J. Robert Erikson and Marion G. (Allen). Mrs. Mullins was a graduate of Lynn English High School and later earned her Associate's Degree from North Shore Community College. She worked as an administrative assistant for many years at St. Francis House in Boston, and through this work found a great sense of satisfaction in providing care for those less fortunate.

Mrs. Mullins enjoyed playing cards, crocheting, reading, and cooking. The greatest joys in her life came from time spent with her family, especially her grandchildren.

She was the devoted mother of Jennifer Keane and her husband Thomas of Quincy and the late Jodi Lee Mullins and her longtime partner Greg Curtis; and the proud grandmother of William Mullins of South Boston, and Rebecca and Molly Keane of Quincy. She was the sister of Richard Erikson of Nahant, Lee Chase of Exeter, NH, and the late Joan O'Brien, and Robert Erikson. Also survived by many nieces and nephews.

John V. DiTullio, 85

A funeral Mass for John V. DiTullio, age 85, a lifelong Braintree resident, will be celebrated Thursday at 10 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church, Weymouth Landing.

Mr. DiTullio died peacefully Oct. 26 at Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital - Plymouth, surrounded by his loving family.

He was born in Quincy, to the late Anthony and Eva (Libertine) DiTullio. He was a graduate of Braintree High School, Class of 1951, and Bridgewater State College, Class of 1955. He proudly served in the U.S. Army in the 1950s.

As a young man, Mr. DiTullio began his career as a social worker for the Department of Social Services in Quincy. He went on to work in graphics design, first for General Dynamics at the former Fore River Shipyard for over twenty years, and later as a graphics design specialist for Pitney Bowes Management Services in Boston for fourteen years. He retired in 1999.

He was a member of the Fore River Long Service Club and also served as a volunteer for many years with the General Dynamics retirees, assisting at events and banquets. John enjoyed gardening, loved music and was an avid sports fan.

In 2004, Mr. DiTullio was inducted into the Bridgewater State College Athletic Hall of Fame in recognition of his accomplishments as a member and captain of both the basketball and soccer teams.

Mr. DiTullio was also active in his community as a coach for many years with Braintree Little League baseball.

He was fond of his granddaughter's pet dog, Gizmo.

Most of all, Mr. DiTullio

was dedicated to his family, especially to his grandchildren and great granddaughter.

Beloved husband for sixty-three years of Josephine L. (Correnti) DiTullio. Devoted father of John A. DiTullio and his wife Susan of Hanover, Donna M. Grugnale and her husband Michael of Weymouth. Loving grandfather of John P. DiTullio and his wife Katie of Rockland, Christina M. DiTullio of Hanover, and Adriana M. Grugnale of Weymouth. Cherished great-grandfather of Mackenzie. Dear brother of Stephen Edward DiTullio and his wife Deko of Phoenix, Arizona and the late Robert A. DiTullio and his late wife Maria. He is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Funeral from the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy, Thursday, at 9 a.m. Visiting hours at the funeral home were Wednesday 5 to 8 p.m.

Interment, with military honors, at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Memorial donations may be made to the Senior Behavioral Health Center at Beth Israel Deaconess Hospital - Plymouth, c/o Philanthropy Office, 275 Sandwich St., Plymouth, MA 02360.

Michael V. McCarren

A funeral service for Michael Vincent McCarren of Quincy was held Oct. 26 in the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Mr. McCarren died Oct. 21.

A man with a passion for good times, with a contagious laugh, who wanted everyone to live every moment to the fullest, he was the life of every place he went, and brought smiles to all those he met.

He will be missed dearly by friends and family, including the many who felt the joy of his generous heart, including his love, Donna Vallatini; his mother, Carole; brother Denis and his wife Karen, his nephews Jack and Ted, and niece

Maeve; family Joseph and Lauren, Scott Vallatini, Julie and Jeff Tam, and grandsons Benjamin and Adam Tam. He is the son of the late Michael James McCarren (Oct. 23, 1944 to May 11, 2011) and brother of the late Timothy James McCarren (Jan. 12, 1971 to Dec. 25, 1987).

Dr. Donald E. Reed, 93

A funeral service for Dr. Donald E. Reed, 93, of Quincy, was held Oct. 25 in the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Reed died Oct. 20 after a long and fruitful life.

He was born in Damascus, Ohio, on May 13, 1926. Feeling a call to a life of Christian service, he attended and graduated from Eastern Nazarene College with a degree in religion in 1948. It was there he met and married his wife Elva in June of 1948. Dr. Reed then attended Drew Theological Seminary where he received his Masters of Divinity in 1950. Following this, he was the pastor of the Carney Church of the Nazarene in Carney, N.J., for 2 years. It was here that he and Elva felt called to the mission field.

Dr. Reed spent 14 years in Lebanon serving as a missionary for the Nazarene Church. He started, built and directed the Beirut Nazarene School and Bible College during this time. Dr. Reed also promoted the establishment of other churches and schools in Lebanon. Graduates from his ministry are all over the globe. He also raised his family there, traveled extensively in the Middle East and completed his Masters in Education at the American University in Beirut. After completing his service in Lebanon, Dr. Reed completed his Doctorate in Secondary Education at Ohio University. He became a professor of secondary education at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston in 1970 from where he retired in 2010.

Dr. Reed and his wife Elva traveled all over the world with Work & Witness Teams to continue their missionary work. He helped transform a theater into a church in Paris, France, built churches in Swaziland, Africa, helped repair church roofs in Scotland, built a school in Belize and spent nine weeks in China teaching the English as a second language (ESL) teachers. He was an ordained minister and visitation pastor at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene up until 2018. Dr.

DR. DONALD E. REED

Reed was very active in the Chinese Nazarene Church where he served as the interim pastor for 2 years and has taught ESL in Quincy since 1995. He was also active in the Sebago Church of the Nazarene in Sebago, Maine. Dr. Reed loved spending his spare time at his property in Casco, Maine. When he wasn't fishing, he was teaching his family how to fish, drinking coffee, working his garden, making jam and selling hundreds of jars to benefit those in need. He was a generous and caring man who will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Beloved husband of 58 years to the late Elva M. (Pettit) Reed. Loving father of Donald T. Reed and his wife Martha (Whiteford) of Carlsbad, NM, Lawrence P. Reed and his wife Nancy (Pompeo) of Tewksbury, Alice M. Reed and her husband Al Stander of Sebago, ME, Robert A. Reed and his wife Debby (Mountz) of Loveland, CO, and Elva J. Reed Hazelton of Quincy. Cherished brother of Jeanette (Reed) Nightingale and her husband Jay of VA and predeceased by nine siblings. Devoted grandfather of Rachel, Larry Jr., Christen, Katie, Jeanette, Michael, Christopher, Becca, Sondra, Cindi, and Mandy. Also survived by 5 great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Interment at Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Memorial donations may be made to the Donald and Elva Reed Scholarship Fund, 23 E. Elm Ave., Quincy, MA 02170.

Bethany Congregational

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center, will have Sunday Worship Service at 9:30 a.m. Rev. Patrick McCorkle will be preaching his sermon. Fellowship with refreshments will follow.

The church is wheelchair accessible.

James D. Ritchie

A funeral Mass for James D. Ritchie of Milton, formerly of Neponset, was celebrated Tuesday in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Ritchie died peacefully surrounded by his family on Oct. 20.

Beloved husband of Ann I. (McNally) Ritchie of Milton for 52 years. Devoted father of Elisa "Ellie" O'Malley of Quincy, Theresa "Skidoo" Ritchie of Quincy and Thomas Ritchie of Milton. Loving son of the late James and Evelyn (McLaughlin) Ritchie of Dorchester and brother of the late Donald Ritchie. Also survived by his sister-in-law Patricia Crawford of Canton and son-in-law Sean O'Malley of Quincy. He will be deeply missed by his loving grandchildren Brielle and Colm O'Malley of Quincy and Declan, Maeve and Braeden Ritchie of Milton and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

Mr. Ritchie's world revolved around his loving family. He took great pride in his children's activities, along with coaching them in sports and vacationing as a family. His grandchildren adored their Papa. Mr. Ritchie would always pay special attention to each of them with his gentle manner.

He was an avid Boston sports fan and loved listening and dancing to Irish music with Ann by his side. He was the life of the party and will be remembered for playing the harmonica and making people laugh. Mr. Ritchie served proudly in the United States Marine Corps. He will be sadly missed by all who knew him.

Interment at Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Assn., MA Chapter, 309 Waverley Oaks Rd., Waltham, MA 02452.

Ione J. Christine, 102

Funeral arrangements for Ione J. (Tantardini) Christine, age 102, a longtime Braintree resident, formerly of Quincy, were private.

Mrs. Christine died peacefully Oct. 24 in the comfort of her home, surrounded by her loving family.

She was born in Quincy, to the late Robert and Martha (Abate) Tantardini. Raised in Quincy, she was a graduate of North Quincy High School, Class of 1934. She had lived in Braintree for sixty-seven years, previously in Quincy.

She was a dedicated mother and homemaker and, as a young woman, had worked as a dance instructor.

Mrs. Christine was an accomplished knitter and enjoyed bird watching. Most of all, she was devoted to her family and especially to her grandchildren and great-granddaughter.

Beloved wife of the late H. Edward Christine. Devoted mother of Robert E. Christine and his late wife Judith of Raynham, Phillip W. Christine of Los Angeles, California, Richard A. Christine and his wife Cynthia of Waterboro, Maine, Gail P. Brownell of Nashua, New Hampshire, and the late Stephen P. Christine. Loving grandmother of seven grandchildren and one great-granddaughter. Dear sister of Ruth Grassi of Austin, Texas. She is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Memorial donations may be made to the Salvation Army of Quincy, 6 Baxter St.,

IONE J. CHRISTINE

Quincy, MA 02169.

Arrangements under the direction of the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave, Quincy, MA 02169.

Julia A. Hajjar, 97

A funeral Mass for Julia Ann Hajjar, 97, a lifelong resident of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy.

Ms. Hajjar died peacefully at her home surrounded by her loving family on Oct. 25.

Born and raised in Quincy, she was the daughter of the late Charles and Susan Hajjar. She attended local schools and graduated from Quincy High School with the Class of 1940. Following high school, Julia attended secretarial school in Boston. Ms. Hajjar had a fruitful career, first with her family's restaurant and then later she opened her own business, Julie's Dress Shop, in Brockton where she offered women's clothing and dresses for all occasions.

An avid reader, Ms. Hajjar visited the Thomas Crane Public Library regularly with her sister Mabel. They took full advantage of all library privileges. She read different kinds of books, but her favorite was historical fiction.

In her spare time, Ms. Hajjar enjoyed gardening, spending time at the family pool where she was in charge of hospitality, visiting with her friends daily and checking on them by phone if she did not see them in person. Ms. Hajjar was a wonderful friend and ready to pitch in wherever she could be of assistance. She enjoyed traveling around the world with her nieces. A member of the Old Colony Ski Club, Ms. Hajjar liked to socialize at the lodge with her friends. In her younger years, she enjoyed golfing as well. She was an active member of the Nicholas G. Beram Veterans Association. She donated generously to many charities that were dear to her heart.

The most important part of Ms. Hajjar's life was her family. There wasn't anything she wouldn't do for the people she loved and cared for. Ms. Hajjar's feisty demeanor, kindness, humor, love and concern for her family and dedication are her legacy that will live on through her family and friends. She will be missed by all the lives she touched.

Ms. Hajjar was the cherished sister of Sidney "Jack" Hajjar and his wife Evalynne of Milton, the late Mabel Hajjar and her husband Ferris of Quincy and the late Linda Hajjar and her husband Toufic of Quincy. She was the devoted aunt of Louise Densmore and her husband David of Braintree, Susan Hajjar of Hingham, Steve Hajjar and his wife Jean of Cohasset, Marianne Hajjar of Danvers, Helaine Nader and her husband Tony of Milton, Charles Hajjar and his wife Anne of Milton, John Hajjar and his wife Astrid of Milton and the late Michael Hajjar and his surviving wife Asma of Quincy. She was the devoted great aunt of seventeen and the devoted great-great aunt of five. She is also survived by many loving extended family members and many dear friends.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the New England Home For The Deaf, Danvers, MA.

OBITUARIES

Adele J. Monti

Adele J. (Guastalli) Monti died peacefully at home surrounded by her family on Oct. 23.

Mrs. Monti was born in Boston to the late Alcide and Isolina (Bambini) Guastalli.

She grew up in Hyde Park and graduated from Hyde Park High School in 1947, where she was editor of the high school newspaper. In 1950, she married Edward Monti, and moved to Quincy, where she had lived for the past 70 years.

Mrs. Monti was a homemaker and later worked in local retail stores in Quincy. She eventually became the secretary/receptionist at Almquist Flowerland in Quincy and worked there for close to 30 years. It was most often her kind voice that customers would hear when calling for flowers. She loved her work and her co-workers.

Her greatest passion was her family. She loved being around her daughters, grandchildren, great grandchildren and all of their friends. She hosted most holidays and served her delicious food to so many over the years. Each summer, she and her husband would welcome the extended family to Humarock to enjoy the sea and sunshine. She loved traveling and spent time in St. Thomas, USVI with her close friends; traveled to Italy with her family and more recently enjoyed spending time in Florida and Vermont. She will be missed by many friends and family.

Mrs. Monti was predeceased by her husband, Edward P. Monti, her brothers, Evo, Richard and Alfred Guastalli, and her sister Jennie Tocci. She is survived by her loving daughters, Donna Monti Ackerman, Michele Pelrine and her husband Rahn, her devoted niece Cynthia McCall and her husband Alan, her grandchildren Justin Ackerman, his wife Heidi (and their daughters Isalina and Elsie), Ryan Ackerman, his wife Courtney, Emily Pelrine, and many more caring friends and family members.

Services were private at Mrs. Monti's request.

Memorial donations may be made to NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, 422 Washington St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Zoning Board Of Appeals Upholds Adams Street Permits

Inspectional Services Director Jay Duca said the subdivision plan was approved in 2001 and complies with the city's zoning code.

"I looked it over and nausium with a surveyor. I looked at all the different setbacks that apply to this," Duca said. "I can assure this board that it meets all the dimensional requirements in our ordinance."

The builder agreed to construct a single private-access road in lieu of the four driveways so that the wall can remain intact, Duca added. The trees along Adams Street will remain intact as well, he said, and the builder would be planting new landscaping on site and making a payment into the city's tree ordinance fund. In addition, Duca said the zoning code allows unlimited earth removal provided permits have been properly issued.

As to the retaining wall in question, Duca said he and the city's legal department were unable to determine who owns it, but it appears that is located on privately owned land.

The board voted unanimously to uphold the permits.

"I'm going to uphold the city because Mr. Duca told me he did his due diligence," said Martin Aikens, the board's chairman. "It's a shame that we have to put four single-family homes in that part of the city, but that's the way it is."

In other business on Oct. 22, the Zoning Board of Appeals:

Approved Habit Opco's request for a special permit and finding to operate a clinic at 39 Broad St. offering medication-assisted treatment to patients with substance-use disorders.

Approved Tony Wine's request for special permit and variance to subdivide the lot at 66 Crabtree Rd. and build a single-family home on the newly created parcel.

Approved Sam Zeng's request for a variance and finding to add a second-story addition to 97 Sherman St. The board did so under the condition that the home's basement be kept as is.

Approved Steven and Adela Wojtasinski's request for a finding to reconstruct the pre-existing non-conforming structure at 862 E. Squantum St.

Allowed Matthew Gore to withdraw without prejudice his request to subdivide the lot at 138 Independence Ave. and build a new single-family home on the new lot. Board members said the lot would be too small to subdivide and suggested the applicant add an addition to the home there now.

Continued until Dec. 3 deliberations on Robert and Cecelia Pearce's request for a special permit and variance to build a five-car garage at 391 Granite St. Board members asked the applicants to shrink the footprint of the proposed garage.

public hearing on a request for a variance to build two three-unit residences at 7 (0) Faxon Park Rd.

Continued until Jan. 14 a public hearing on Michael Grehan's request for a special permit and variance to raze the existing structure at 12 Miller St. and build five new townhouse units in its place.

Continued until Nov. 19 Erin Kelley's request to tear down the existing structure at 162 Winthrop St. and rebuild on the same footprint with a 330-square-foot addition.

Concert To Benefit DOVE At Houghs Neck Church

The Orchestra of Zhao Zhi-Min Chinese Music School will be performing at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., Quincy, on Sunday, Nov. 10th at 4 p.m., in support of the DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) organization.

As the second in the "Wind from the East" series, the concert will feature traditional Chinese folk music played on dozens of traditional Chinese instruments, including the string-family (Erhu, Banhu, Jinghu, Zhonghu, etc.), bamboo flute, Pipa, Guzheng (a stringed zither), Ruan, and more. A brief introduction of the various instruments will be given during the concert. The music also includes singings of Chinese opera pieces, which is a new addition to concert.

Zhao Zhi-Min, the founder of the Music School and the Orchestra, began his music training at the age of six, learning Bamboo Flute and Erhu at the Children's Palace in Dalian, China, a school for the musically gifted. He further developed his talent learning to play traditional and ancient Chinese instruments studying with Master Liu Ming Yuan, renowned worldwide as a traditional Chinese folk music performer and composer. He came to the United States in 1985 and played in the Chinese Music Ensemble of New York as the Erhu/Banhu soloist and concertmaster until 1998.

Zhao moved to Boston in 1998, since then his career has become more focused on Chinese music teaching and education. He formed the Chinese Music School in 2000, and the Orchestra in 2001. The Orchestra plays music of various styles from many different regions and minority groups of China. Zhao Zhi-Min and his students have played in schools, libraries, churches and senior centers, introducing traditional Chinese music to the Greater Boston area.

DOVE offers a comprehensive range of services, provided in a safe place and comfortable environment, designed to increase safety, promote healing, and expand knowledge and resources for those we serve. DOVE staff are highly trained and well educated on issues related to domestic violence, and work to deliver services in a survivor-centered approach with the understanding that each survivor is an individual and all decisions are deeply personal.

DOVE is committed to partnering with diverse communities, families and individuals impacted by domestic violence. We promote hope, healing, safety and social change by providing a broad range of preventative and responsive services.

DOVE provides services to individuals impacted by domestic violence and welcomes refugee and immigrant survivors both documented and undocumented, people with disabilities, people who are deaf or hard of hearing, people of color, and LGBTQ/T and gender non-conforming individuals.

Tara Nguyen Selected For Honors Program

Nearly 100 students are participating in Eastern Connecticut State University's highly selective University Honors Program this 2019-20 academic year. Of these students is Tara Nguyen '22 of Quincy, who majors in sociology. This is Nguyen's third year in the program.

The Honors Program accepts highly motivated and academically driven students. When accepted into the program, students are required to complete several additional classes, including a capstone course in which students complete a thesis based around their academic major.

Being a part of the Honors Program also opens several doors for students. Multiple honors students present work every year at conferences such as the Northeast Regional Honors Conference, the Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC) and Eastern's Celebrating Research Excellence and Artistic Talent at Eastern (CREATE) conference.

feared more than halfway through the season. And now, the next time they play a game it will be in post-season action.

The Presidents earned the second overall seed in the MIAA Div. 1 Central/East Sectional Tournament and a first-round bye. Quincy will host 7-seed Belmont in a quarterfinal match up next Monday, Nov. 4 at Quincy High School at 6:30 p.m.

There are 9 teams in the bracket with Newton North (12-1) the number one seed.

Entering the tournament, Quincy will not rest on their prior success.

"I don't know if the record really matters, but we've got to make sure we're playing fast-paced games and getting better as the year goes on," Niosi said. "That's what's really important."

With the most important part of the team's schedule coming up now, Niosi said there is still plenty of room for improvement for the Presidents as they enter tournament play.

"I think we need to play with some more heart than we did tonight and hustle," she said. "We didn't look very fast tonight, so I guess we're going to have to work on improving our speed over the next few days."

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Lots of choices could make it difficult to select what is best for your needs. Avoid snap judgments. Take the time to check them all out to find the one that really meets your goals.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You could once again experience pressure from others who would like to see you move in another direction. But heed your Bovine instincts to stay on your own path.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Taking charge of a project that seems to be about to stall or collapse altogether could be a challenge. But once everyone knows what you expect of him or her, things should go smoothly.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid the pressures of the upcoming holiday period by setting a time right now to discuss how to divide up the responsibility of helping a loved one come through a difficult period.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's not too early for all you Leonas and Leos to start making long-distance travel plans. The sooner you stop procrastinating and start deciding where, when and how you're going, the better.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone you've known for years might disappoint you, or even make you feel you've been betrayed. But check the facts carefully before you make charges that could backfire on you.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A holiday plan might need to be revised to accommodate an unexpected complication. Come up with an alternative arrangement as soon as possible to avoid more problems down the line.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Don't accept halfway explanations for a situation that requires full disclosure. The more you know now, the better able you will be to handle any complications that might arise.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The cooperation you relied upon might not be easy to get. Maybe there's an information gap. See if everyone understands the situation. If not, be sure to offer a full explanation.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Problems caused by that recent workplace distraction should soon be easing, allowing you to resume working at a less frantic pace. That personal matter also begins to ease up.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Changing your mind about a job decision isn't easy for the usually committed Aquarian. But once you check it out, you'll find facts you didn't know before. And facts don't lie.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your unique way of sizing up a situation gives you an edge in resolving that upsetting workplace problem. Stay on your current course regardless of any attempts to distract you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are emotionally attuned to what's going on around you, and you easily pick up on people's needs.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Old guard Hollywood moviemaker Martin Scorsese struggled with Netflix to get legitimacy for "The Irishman." Netflix agreed to show "The Irishman" for three weeks in theaters before its Nov. 27 streaming. But the major movie chains balked at showing the film for only three weeks. Why should they spend a fortune publicizing a film destined for Netflix subscribers 21 days later? Scorsese had to settle for three weeks at Broadway's historic Belasco Theatre (being converted from a legitimate theater into a movie house). The Robert De Niro, Al Pacino and Joe Pesci starrer will still have to be booked into a Hollywood theater for one week prior to Dec. 31 to qualify for the Oscars.

When Ansel Elgort (Tony in Steven Spielberg's "West Side Story" remake) was quoted as saying he wanted "a nonsexual open relationship" and would "like to find a lot more love" beyond his relationship with his high school sweetheart, ballerina Violetta Komysheva, it set off a Twitter storm against his "West Side Story" Maria (Rachel Zegler), after her heartfelt message about Elgort when they completed filming. His Twitter fans were so incensed they called the 17-year-old a "homewrecker" and "heart-breaker," along with other unprintable things, and she shut down her Twitter account. Elgort, as of this writing, has yet to tell his fans to back off. "West Side Story" opens Dec. 18, 2020.

Apple was the top bidder among streaming services for a new musical version of "A Christmas Carol," starring Ryan Reynolds and Will Ferrell (who will also produce and share $60 million). George C. Scott starred in a musical version of "A Christmas Carol" for CBS in 1984, and now his son Campbell Scott will star in a Broadway production for eight weeks through Jan. 5, with the magical Andrea Martin. A new score will be mostly Christmas carols, so the audience will be able to sing along. At 58, Campbell is the same age as his father when he played Ebenezer Scrooge.

"The Big Bang Theory" cast have moved on. Jim Parsons (Sheldon) will be streaming in Netflix's "The Boys in the Band" film. Simon Helberg (Wolowitz) is starring in the Amazon musical "Annette," with Oscar-winner Marion Cotillard and Adam Driver. Kunal Nayyar (Raj) stars in "Think Like a Dog," with Megan Fox and Josh Duhamel. Mayim Bialik (Amy) toplines the new Fox TV series "Carla." Melissa Rauch (Bernadette) is currently streaming in the Meryl Streep/Gary Oldman film "The Laundromat." Meanwhile, Kaley Cuoco (Penny) is worth $55 million and is spending her time building a dream house for her and new husband Karl Cook. Even though they've been married a year, they still don't live together, which has people all a-twitting. That's new ... live apart 'til you grow together.

'Snail' Inkwell --- In ancient Egypt, a rich man would not write his own letters but would travel with a scribe who wrote his letters for him. The scribe used a crude pen that had to be dipped in ink; he carried it on a stone with a slight hollow. As more learned to write, the ink holders became fancier, and carved stones like jade or marble were used. Liquid ink, a mixture of the blackening and liquid, made a different type of inkwell necessary. A traveling man had a pen and ink in a leakproof container made of ceramic, glass, shells, or later, metal or plastic.

The era of the inkwells that interests most collectors began in the 18th century. Elaborate ceramic containers to hold ink on a desk as part of a set in an inkstand were important accessories. Soon all inkwells were glass set in metal or other leakproof containers that could screw or clamp shut. One of the most unusual is the porcelain "snail," a revolving, tilting inkwell. It looks like a snail shell on a metal frame standing on a saucer. The bottle revolves so the snail's head tilts up, exposing the opening for the pen. There are even twin snail holders. When the fountain pen was invented by Lewis Waterman in 1880, the need for inkwells vanished. Then, in 1939, the ballpoint pen debuted. Few now use pen and ink, but collectors search for old inkwells. A snail inkwell sold at a Glass Works online bottle auction in New Jersey recently for $156. It was made of white porcelain and decorated with hand-painted multi-colored flowers.

Q: I inherited over 30 Bossons wall head sculptures and I don't really want them. Could you recommend an organization or collectors group that might help me find a buyer for them?

A: Bossons character wall masks were made by W. H. Bossons, Ltd. Company in Congleton, England, from 1946 to 1996. W. H. Bossons and his son, Ray Bossons, trained as potters and designed the pieces. After W. H. died in 1951, Ray ran the business. The company also made figurines, shelf ornaments, plaques, lamp bases, bookends, wall clocks, thermometers, barometers and more. There is limited interest in the wall sculptures today, and they are hard to sell. Try contacting the International Bossons Collectors Society at www.bossons.org to reach collectors. One sculpture could sell at retail for $35 to $100.

TIP: Never store a rug in a plastic bag. The fibers need to breathe. Wrap the rug in a clean white sheet. Don't store rugs in a hot attic.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was influential American theoretical physicist Richard Feynman who made the following sage observation: "It doesn't matter how beautiful your theory is, it doesn't matter how smart you are. If it doesn't agree with experiment, it's wrong."

* Those who study such things say that an eagle's feathers weigh twice as much as its bones.

* You've probably read about the unprecedented casualties suffered on all sides in World War I. You probably didn't know, though, that 60,000 of those casualties were due to avalanches caused by gunfire in the Alps.

* In 1962, a group of oceanographers sailed off to watch an undersea volcano off the coast of Japan whose eruption seemed imminent. It seems that they got the timing right, but not the location; or, rather, they got the location [SET ITAL]too[END ITAL] right. The eruption occurred directly beneath their vessel, destroying it.

* If you ever visit the Alpine village of Saint Veran, take a good look at the construction of the early buildings -- none of the walls meet at a 90-degree angle. Why aren't they square? According to the beliefs of early townsfolk, the devil lurks in square corners.

* Studies show a correlation between tight shoes and larger appetites.

Thought for the Day: "A premarital lovers' quarrel should never last more than three minutes. In the first year of marriage, a four-minute quarrel should be acceptable. After six years, and eight-minute quarrel is allowed. A 10-minute quarrel is permissible after a decade. Those married longer have more to quarrel about." -- E.V. Durling

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* What's on sale in November? Try for good deals on shoes, boys clothing, blankets and pre-Christmas sales. They start earlier and earlier each year. Also, look for deals on cooking and serving pieces just before and after Thanksgiving.

* Clean your coffee carafe regularly by scrubbing with soap and water. Run a descaler or a mix of vinegar and water through the brewer to clean out the reserve tank. Follow with a plain water rinse.

* Need an egg substitute in a pinch? Mix a teaspoon of vinegar with a teaspoon of cornstarch. Making a recipe with rise? You could also use baking soda in place of the cornstarch.

* Use aluminum foil on the back side of your radiator coils to reflect heat back into the room. One easy way to do this is to measure a piece of cardboard to fit the space behind the radiator. Then wrap the cardboard with aluminum foil and place behind the coils.

* "Great gravy is only a plastic bag away! This is my great tip for separating the fat from pan drippings to make gravy. I take a quart-size plastic bag and set it in a glass measuring cup. Pour the pan drippings through a strainer, right into the bag. Let it sit for 15-20 minutes, and the fat will separate to the top. Seal the bag, and snip a small hole in a bottom corner, drain the liquid into a saucepan to make gravy. It's that easy." -- T.C. in Idaho

* Give your loose tea a boost of flavor by adding a dried orange or lemon peel to the tea tin. It will impart a delightful citrus flavor the longer it's in the tin.

Capt. Richard Stratton Way Dedicated To War Hero

were involved in famous and historic military missions.

"That is what inspired me as a youngster," he said.

He also recalled going to Dennison Airport, now Marina Bay, where Amelia Earhart flew and watched planes take off and land that grew his interest in aviation.

Relating his captivity, Stratton said that he and his fellow prisoners did what they could to get into the heads of the North Vietnamese.

"It wasn't always that bad," he said. "Once the torture stopped we actually had a ball. We got into their knickers every day. Any way to screw up the communist Vietnamese, boy, we did it. We were an inventive crowd."

Stratton said it's the families that have the worst of it, not the soldiers.

"The American sailor, the American marine, the American soldier, no matter where you send them, when you give him or her a challenge, because they are free people, brought up in our school systems, brought up in our churches, they have a way of learning to adjust and live with it."

Added Stratton, "It's the families that suffer while we go off to war," he said. "The guys go off to do what needs to be done and don't feel the least bit sorry for themselves."

Koch said that the historical marker will serve as a reminder to future generations of the sacrifices and dedication of veterans.

"The freedoms we enjoy are not free," he said. "Young people need to know this."

QUINCY FIRE and police color guards make their way along Stratton Way during the dedication ceremony.
